FOUND BONES OF MAMMOTH

While prospecting along the Snake river a few miles above Swan Falls dam, Earlswine brothers of this city, discovered the bones of a mammoth animal, presumably one of the prehistoric mastodons, says the Boise Statesman. A large number of the bones were secured and brought to this city, but they were not in a condition to be preserved, crumbling and breaking badly when exposed to the air.

The bones were found on a steep hillside not far from the river on the Owyhee county side, in a section but infrequently visited. They were situated perhaps 350 feet from the base of the hill and about 100 feet from the summit. They lay in the midst of some white volcanic ashes, the lava from some volcano of ancient date ever flowing the entire country roundabout.

As the two men were going up the hill in their search for signs of the precious metals, one of them happened to notice a bone sticking out of the ash bed. Thinking that it was of very large size, he began an investigation which did not cease until he and his brother had uncovered a large number of bones of enormous size.

What is apparently the bone from one of the feet, from the hook to the hoof, was preserved in good condition by Mr. Earlswine. It measured about nine inches in length and is almost as thick through as it is long.

One of the hip bones was taken to the office of Chief of Police Horn, being so large as to take up almost the entire space in one of the window recesses. The socket at the hip measures six and a half inches in diameter and the cavity is three inches deep.
