Will Probe Matters

Washington July 22—It would not be surprising if a general investigation of all the government departments should follow the probing into the methods of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture and the investigation now in progress in the government printing office. So much fraud, in so many different places has been brought to light as to cast a shadow over the entire government service, not alone in Washington, but in the field. Graft has been uncovered where everything was rapped out to be running according to the law and regulations. Trusted officials have been found engaging in dishonorable traffic, and the result has been that countless rumors have been set afloat involving other officials and other bureaus which have heretofore been above suspicion.
