exploit, and the ambition of its rulers be turned from the goal they have sought for centuries.

The revolution will be radical and for the better of the masses, for then each country will cease to depend for its greatness and power upon the success of its merchants and the splendor of its cities, but will be forced to become home builders and its chief ambition and pride will be to render it possible for more people to live in comfortable homes of their own within its dominion than in any other country.

The water situation in the city still continues to be a serious question, and will continue until such time as additional supply is secured. It is at the present stage Grande is short of water and other arrangements must be made or we will have a dry town sure enough.

A million bushel wheat crop and a thirty thousand ton sugar beet crop will certainly cause this valley to experience a very prosperous season. The Grande Ronde valley has never experienced a failure in crops by some seasons are better than others. This is of the better sort, and every man woman and child will reap the benefit.

The La Grande public school will open Monday September the eleventh. La Grande has reason to feel proud of its public schools and nothing which will in any way increase their value must be overlooked. Every patron of the school should encourage every available means to encourage the teachers and board of directors and thereby assist in making the schools yet better.

MINISTERS AT SAN FRANCISCO

By Scripps News Association San Francisco Aug. 15—Prominent divines and laymen of the Christian Church are gathering in San Francisco in anticipation of the International Missionary Convention of that denomination which convenes here from the 17th to the 24th of this month. These annual conventions of the Christian organization organizations are the largest denominational conventions held. At St. Louis last year there were 20274 delegates in attendance. About half that number is expected in San Francisco. The Christian ministers of California, aided by the California Promotion Committee, are preparing an attractive program entertainment for the visitors. Ten separate organizations of the Church will be in session.
