Searchlight Flashed From Pike's Peak Seen in Spokane

Spokane, Aug. 31—Flashes believed to be reflections from the mammoth new searchlight on the summit of Pike's peak were seen on the horizon last night by scores of Spokane people. The announcement that the great electric lamp was to be turned into the heavens for the first time last night was read with interest, and the twinkling rays of light appearing on the dark background of the sky over Spokane were hailed with keen interest as a remarkable achievement in the long distance transmission of signals.

The flash darted across the horizon about 9:30 o'clock. It was recalled that a United States army officer had signalled 268 miles from a point in Colorado with a heliograph, thereby capturing the world's record for heliographing by a margin of 100 miles.

and last night's aerial demonstration was regarded as another and greater triumph for the Centennial state, inasmuch as the distance between Colorado Springs and Spokane is approximately 900 miles in an air line. Visions of electric flash messages to Mars and planets even further distant thronged through the minds of the imaginative, and altogether the incident aroused more interest than any scientific demonstration in recent months.

Close scrutiny of the flickering lights pencilled across the sky finally disclosed the fact that it was a manifestation of aurora borealis of the northern light variety, thus punctuating the interesting situation developed in the minds of enthusiastic observers.

He "Looped" It

Chicago Aug 31—A dispatch to the Tribune from Evansville, Ind., says: Arthur Heeger, 15 years old, was fatally injured yesterday trying to "loop the gap". He started down a long incline on a wheel, thinking the momentum of the machine would carry him safely across a creek 15 feet wide at the bottom. He lost control of the machine and was thrown several feet, fracturing his spine and injuring himself internally. The recent visit of a circus here inspired the attempt.

Suit Against Ladd

Portland Aug 31—The heirs of A. H. Johnson, who died leaving an estate valued at three quarters of a million but heavily encumbered, have begun suit against William Ladd, the banker, and one of the wealthiest men of Portland, to have him removed as administrator and demanding a final accounting.

Think Pot

Praise is the food of fools, but all men like it. High aims may not bring perfection, but they advance one toward it. Many things are done in the name of justice that are provoked by envy. A man with an empty stomach is a poor listener. People who seek to excuse their faults are only half repentant of them. These people who get so busy preparing for heaven that they neglect matters here below. The longest line of illustrious ancestry can not ennoble a fool, a sot, or a knave. A man who is prodigal with his time, will also be prodigal with his money. When you hear a man complaining that he is misunderstood you can set it down as certain that he has failed to make good. When a man is born into this world he comes in tears, while all around him are in smiles, but if he lives a good and noble life down to old age and departs in peace, he himself goes out of this world in smiles, while all around him are in tears.

The system used is the latest and most practical, and includes all the latest discoveries in the art of teaching music. In No. 2 the grades are from 3 to 15. Here they graduate. Pupils take one or two lessons a week as they desire. No scholars will be permitted to remain in this school who do not study.
