PORTLAND DOGS ARE NOW DOOMED

Igorrotes Arrive at Last and Begin Their Canine Garousals at the Portland Fair

Portland Sept. 4.—After many vexatious delays, the band of head hunting, dog-eating Igorrotes from the Island of Lubon has arrived at last, and the Lewis and Clark Exposition is now the scene of daily tomton dances and frequent dog feasts. Poor Fido and his brother Carlo are hiding out, but the Igorrotes will get them sooner or later, for they have less than six weeks in which to devour all of Portland's surplus dogs.

The village awaited them in what may be called skeleton form, and they set to work and covered the frameworks of their houses with material which they brought along. An Igorrote would not feel at home in a house entirely made by other hands. The Igorrote village is located next to Homer Davenport's pleasant farm at the edge of the Trail, where the weird music of the tomton is heard every day and every evening.

Fruit Condemned.

Fruit Inspector Reid of Josephine county, condemned a consignment of apples from the H. B. Miller orchard in Rogue river valley. He found indications of San Jose scale in the shipment and so ordered the boxes of fruit sent to a cannery. Mr. Miller, owner of the orchard, is now an American consul to a Chinese city, and left his new 50 acre orchard to the care of hired help, Mr. Reid says.

DON'T WELCOME FEED YARDS

The ordinance forbidding the feeding of teams on the streets of Colfax was enforced today and much friction was engendered. The council had prepared feed yards in the north end of town and back of the Ridgeway theatre, with water troughs. But many farmers, who for 20 or 30 years have been accustomed to feeding their teams in the streets, objected strenuously, and wordy wars followed. Some farmers threatened to boycott Colfax and do their trading in other towns, and some merchants, fearing they will do so, vigorously opposed the enforcement of the ordinance. Some farmers refused to obey the order and fed their teams on the streets. Other towns have prepared feed yards for farmer's teams and are advertising the fact liberally. Pullman and Palouse have taken action.

Horses Dying Rapidly.

Reports came from Walla Walla that many horses throughout Walla Walla county are affected with the pinkeye. The disease seems to be spreading and many animals have died. In some localities nearly every horse is afflicted. Patrick Lyons, a wealthy Mill creek farmer, has lost ten fine work horses within the past week.

Indicted for Fraud

Portland, Sept. 4.—Indictments were returned by the federal grand jury late Saturday against Willard N. Jones, Thaddeus S. Potter, Ira Wade, John Doe, Richard Roe, Herman K. Finch and Bert Blaumont of charges of attempting to defraud the United States of a part of the Siletz Indian reservation in western Oregon. The statute of limitations would have barred proceedings had the indictments not been returned Saturday.

Great Fire.

Constantinople, Sept. 4.—Fire at Adrianople Saturday, caused enormous damage. Seven thousand houses were destroyed in the Greek, American, Bulgarian and Jewish quarters. There were many victims. With the exception of the Catholic church, the mosques, the schools, a convent and the telegraph offices, few buildings were insured.
