TEMPERANCE CONGRESS

Portland, Ore., Aug. 12, 1906—With a view to promoting such unity of action, a Temperance Congress, international in its scope, has been called to meet in Portland, Oregon, in connection with the Lewis and Clark Fair, from September 19 to 23, in which all societies, organization and churches opposed to the beverage liquor traffic will participate.

Representing these several organizations, speakers of national reputation will address the various gatherings—among others, Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y.; Charles E. Jones, of Chicago, Ill., and Hon. John P. St. John, Versailles, Mo.

As the official representatives of the various organizations, we extend to you and to others through you, a most cordial invitation to be present and participate in this congress; and we ask your hearty co-operation in making this event the one most noted in connection with the Lewis and Clark fair.

Crowded House

A crowded house greeted the Mack Swain company last evening at the open house. Every character was usual, well sustained, by the members of the troupe. To say that the audience was pleased was putting it lightly as every act ended in a burst of applause and laughter frequently punctuated the actors' efforts. Tonight the bill will be "The Lady of Lyons," and is said to be an exceptionally fine piece.

Mentions Judge Eakin

In making predictions as to who will be aspirants for the governor's chair by members of the Republican party the Oregonian of the 14th says of Judge Eakin:

Another judge possessed of a boom let is Robert Eakin, who holds the scales of justice in the Tenth circuit composed of Union and Wallawa Counties. The noise of his boom is not so loud as that of Benson's but his friends say it could be made so Judge Eakin's way in the campaign would be quieter and more sedate than Benson's and perhaps not so formidable against Chamberlain's stump weapons. Eakin is one of the ablest jurists in the state and his decisions have high rating. He is not so widely known in the state as most of the other candidates but this is set up as a point in his favor since he would be freer from the charge of partisanship. He has three years left of his present term as judge. His admirers say that if he should consent to come out as a candidate for the nomination he would feel constrained to resign his judgeship and this he would be declined to do.

"THE CHAPERONS" ARE COMING

One of the most pretentious musical organizations that is touring the country this season, will present the successful Isidore Witmark's comedy opera, "The Chaperons" at La Grande Opera House, Monday night, Sept. 25. This well known attraction probably has more friends and admirers among the play going public of America than any other musical piece ever written. "The Chaperons" company is said to number nearly sixty people, and the cast contains some very well known players including Madelyn Marshall, Ruth Lloyd, Doris Goodwin, Harry Ladell, John Price, George Lydecker, Frank Wooley, W V Stranz, Judith Hayes, Huntington Kay and Helen Clark. The piece was originally written by Frederick Rankin author of "The Amcer", and was subsequently revised by the humorous writer, George V Hobart. The music, which is entirely original, and said to be of a very light and catchy order, was composed by Isidore Witmark, head of the well known New York publishing house. The original production was made by that inimitable stage producer, George W Lederer. "The Chaperons" is now in its third season and has had a career of unusual prosperity. The present production is new in every respect, new scenery, and new costumes, the latter from designs by the celebrated poster artist, Archie Gunn.

Dog and Pony Show

A Dog, Pony and Monkey Circus new to this country will make its initial bid for popular and permanent favor this season when Cozad's Equine Simian and Canine Paradox will exhibit here. The Cozad trade mark has been popularly known in Europe for many years, the show having been handed down from father to son for several generations through a long line of showmen. At the conclusion of the exhibition, the children will be given free rides upon the backs of the pretty demure Shetland ponies. Two exhibitions will be given, one in the afternoon and one at night. There will be over three hundred animal acts and these include highly bred Shetland ponies, dogs of all kinds and monkeys from the various tribes of the earth. There will be animal clowns to make the children laugh and a daily parade upon the principal streets. Cozad's California Dog and Pony Show will exhibit in La Grande Wednesday afternoon and night, Sept. 20, under large water proof tents on circus grounds on 4th street.
