

MONEY SAVING PAINT

Money saving in painting doesn't mean the use of cheap-by-the-gallon paint. It means the use of first-quality paint—paint that will cover most surface to the gallon, that will spread easy and save the painters' time, that will wear well and put off for the longest time the need for re-painting.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT

It is a money saving paint. It covers most surface to the gallon because it is ground exceptionally fine and is thoroughly mixed. For the same reason, it spreads easiest and saves the painters' time.

It wears longest because it is made from the best materials, so thoroughly combined that they become inseparable, and hold together on the building for the longest time. When you buy The Sherwin-Williams Paint you buy economy. We sell it. Color cards free.

ALWAYS

Catering to the wants of our worthy patrons, we have at least satisfied the constant demand made upon us for high grade tailor made suits for gentlemen. In making our selection we have been content with nothing short of the "best" and now invite all "swell dressers" of La Grande and vicinity to call and inspect our magnificent line of woollens for fall and winter trade. Stop a moment, when passing, and read our guarantee. It will certainly interest you.

Remember we are located in the Haworth building, 1316 Adams Ave. Don't forget we are the only people in the northwest who can "make" your underwear. It is superior to anything on the market.

THE COST OF TREATMENT

Showing The Belief That Osteopathy Costs A Great Deal Of Money To Be An Erroneous One

There is no denying that good Osteopaths everywhere receive a fair price for applying their knowledge and skill to the cure of their patients. Why should they not?

But the belief prevails in many quarters that to have Osteopathic treatment costs a great deal of money—that only the very rich can afford it at all. This is an entirely erroneous idea, as may be readily shown.

Where is the shopper of experience who would not rather pay $5 for an article that will wear a year than yield up $1 for something that will fall apart in a month? Should the said shopper invest in the $1 article and pin his belief to it, is it not evident that at the end of the year $12 will have been expended? Yes $5, invested at the outset in the article of known wearing qualities, would plainly have meant a large degree of satisfaction all through the twelve-month.

Applying The Comparison

It may seem odd to compare commercial values with the worth of professional services; yet such a comparison is in this case justified by the fact that in no other way can the point at issue be so well cleared up. The average patient of the average doctor in the average town pays, let us say, from fifty cents to two dollars for a few minutes' consultation, a little encouragement, and a bottle of medicine or prescription. No examination has been made and all concerned are as much in the dark as ever as to the cause of the patient's malady. If the case is an acute one, there is a possibility that Nature, overcoming the disease and the drugs as well, may perform a cure. That is what happens when the patient does recover, for the effect of drugs is always doubtful, always temporary, and never without an evil aspect. Sometimes Nature does win and the doctor gets the credit.

But what happens when Nature is unequal to the task? The trouble simply becomes chronic or gives place to others more serious so that the patient becomes a permanent visitor to the doctor and his seemingly small charges count up so that at the end of a year the system has proven to be a costly one. If the case is one of a chronic trouble there is no hope of final cure from drugs at all, and the facts given above may simply be accentuated in such an instance. If you have much illness in your family, just figure up what the drug system has been costing you and decide whether or not it seems likely to become a permanent affliction.

The Difference Osteopathically

The difference in the practice of the Osteopathic physician is most marked. He invariably makes an examination of the patient's body to ascertain just what it is that causes the symptoms; he aims not so much to relieve those symptoms as to remove their cause. In other words, he aims at a cure, so that when he is through with you it will be possible to cease doctoring entirely and be well. In the one case you simply invest in the $1 article that is of doubtful value, while in the other you get the $5 article which will wear indefinitely.

This is not to say that a visit to an Osteopath is going to cost the patient five times as much as would a call upon another doctor. On the contrary the figures are given only to indicate the relative value of the services rendered by the two. The charges made by the Osteopath, while usually somewhat higher than those of the poorer class of medical doctors, are no higher and in many cases smaller than those made by superior physicians of the old schools. And at the same time the patient has the assurance that an effort is being made to do away with the cause of the trouble so that final cure is probable. Those who have a fancy for being doctored and who wish to keep it up until the trumpet call—such people exist—should avoid the Osteopath, for his mission is to cure; and it may be relied upon that the cost of cure by Osteopathy in any given case will be less than by any other means.
