City Council

At the council meeting last night A. G. Long of Portland offered to install a fire alarm system for the sum of $385 and after discussion it was referred to the Ways and Means committee to consult with the telephone company to ascertain whether or not they would cooperate, as all calls are reported to central who touches the button and rings the fire bell.

The committee to whom the petition to have the city jail vacated or moved to the fire department building, was reported favorable to the petitioners and the Ways and Means committee was instructed to ascertain how much steel cells would cost and to report at the next meeting.

The question of securing better exits to the opera house was discussed and the Fire and Insurance committee was instructed to make a thorough investigation and report their findings at the next meeting. From the expression presented there is little doubt but what the conditions will be improved.

The water committee was voted $300, if in their judgment they saw fit to use to continue the development of the springs. The tunnel is now in 35 feet and the committee are greatly encouraged. The flow of water was reported as increasing. Steps were also taken to secure a continuation of the opinion, also to secure options on other springs in proximity.

The miserable condition of the side walks came in for a share in the general discussion and it was decided to first purchase a quantity of lumber and then for one month at least employ one man to look after the walks in the northern portion of the city and for the street superintendent to devote his attention to the balance of the city.

The resignation of City Engineer Seltz was accepted and L. A. Pickler was elected to the position.
