Childrens' Day

It would not have required a detective to discover that this was school children's day at the fair. The little folks and a good many parents were present. They filled the pavilion, the grand stand and almost crowded the animals out of the stock pens.

There were quite a number of the little people presents yesterday and they thought that the gentlemen's derby was gotten up for their special benefit, and thought that Mr. Murphy's horse had been trained for the occasion and kicked the cart to pieces as a special feature of the program. Today the races had no such scenic displays, but there was sufficient speed shown to demonstrate that the racers were going some, at least when they came under the wire.

Miss Anna Pierce, the Wallawa wonder, won four straight heats yesterday afternoon in the relay race. She seems to have a little the best of it in her mounts, and it is plain to be seen that while her opponents are good riders they have none the best of it there. The relay race is certainly the chief event of each day.

Visited The Fair

Editors George H and Fred B Curry and their wives, their children and a few little friends of the children visited the fair this afternoon in a two seated buggy. There were eight altogether and there was room for more—on top. As the fair only comes once a year the "force" decided that they could get along for one afternoon and kindly allowed them to go.

Keep In Mind

Never lose sight of the fact that Nature must do the curing if it is to be long at all. No dose ever cured a man. The Osteopath does not cure anything either. He simply removes any obstruction that may have developed in Nature's pathway, so that normal circulation of the bodily fluids and forces may be resumed.

Hubbard & Hagins, the barbers who have recently purchased the old Kirtley barber shop, have repainted the same and in many ways made the place look like new.
