Osteopathy

Thoughts Of Famous Men

"When in the future an estimative intelligence sums the great discoveries of the nineteenth century, I believe that the Science of Osteopathy will be given a place near the head of the list, Ople Reid.

"If the founder of Osteopathy, Dr. Still, does nothing more in this life than what he has done to relieve the suffering of women, his name will go down in history as the greatest physician of any age and one of the benefactors of the race"—Mrs Senator J. B. Forsaker.

"All our curative agents are poisons, and as a consequence, every dose diminishes the patient's vitality"—Ataulo Clark M. D. College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York.

"I am more or less familiar with Osteopathy and have a deal of respect for it. Most certainly nobody ever dies from the hands of an Osteopath; neither do they poison and to one or two instances I have almost imagined they performed miracles"—Elbert Hubbard, editor of Peillietine.

Still Imprisoned

Scripps News Association. Brownville, Da, Oct 14—Six men are still imprisoned in the burning mine at Frederickston, where the explosion took place yesterday and the fate is unknown.

Salt Lake Delighted

Adelaide Herrmann delighted audiences yesterday afternoon and evening at the Salt Lake theatre. In addition to the magical novelties which are associated with the name of Herrmann, there were musical specialties of much merit. Madame Herrmann showed herself the worthy successor of Herrmann the Great and performed the most marvelous and fascinating feats.—Salt Lake Herald.
