Scripps News Association.

St Petersburg Nov 2—The manifesto issued by the Czar and posted on the streets this afternoon calling upon the people to support the government so the new regime may be successfully inaugurated and explaining if they do so, the responsibility rests upon them and not upon the government. Continuance of the disturbances are reported from Odessa, Moscow, Warsaw, Nikoloff, Kiev and Sevastopol. At Kiev mob the Jews were attacked and the police stood by and offered no resistance. At Tomsk the procurator ordered the arrest of chief of police on account of brutality, when the latter under the chief orders dealt severely with the people.

DEMAND SELF GOVERNMENT

Warsaw, Nov. 2—This afternoon the Socialists are demanding self government for Poland. A company of gendarmes with officers appeared at the meeting of the Vistula Railway employees and asked permission to listen to the speeches so they could become acquainted with the situation. They were greeted with enthusiasm and given seats.

DEMONSTRATED ALL NIGHT

Shops have been looted by criminals and respectable people are at the mercy of the mob. The police are accused of assisting in the investigation of the devastation. Firing in some parts is incessant and ambulances filled with mutilated, dead and dying are constantly passing.

HORRORS INTENSIFIED

The troops wrecked terrible vengeance on the three houses from whose balconies the shots were fired by unknown persons on the soldiers. The soldiers immediately stormed the houses and massacred the inhabitants. It is persistently asserted that the ones who fired on the soldiers were disguised as policemen and purposely provoked the troops.

The city is a dismal sight. All day long the fighting has been incessant. The Cossacks eagerly attacked the students and the militia wherever they could be found, while the militia was courageously trying to stem the bands of demons. The massacring and pillaging is principally in the Jewish quarters. Scripps News Association.

Chicago Nov 2—Extracts from the diary of Miss L P Hill, the medical student who disappeared from her boarding house, gives the police no clue as to her whereabouts, but reveals the fact that she left St Louis on August 31, traveled four days to San Francisco, and thence went to Honolulu. The records show poverty, and her struggles to maintain her dignity under adverse financial circumstances.

With the exception of the passages referring to love affairs the diary record shows privation and misery and while visiting the social settlements of New York accompanied by Miss Helen Gould and other prominent charity workers. The diary recounts instances where the tenants too poor to have light in their rooms, froze and starved while millions of dollars worth of furs and jewels pass the windows daily where a loaf of bread and a can of tomatoes lasted for days. Miss Hill got a position to teach the colored school at Mobile when she had nothing to eat but eight peanuts and had to make those last a long time.

ESCAPES WINTER IN ICE

By Scripps News Association

San Francisco Nov 2—The gasoline schooner Monterey, Captain Charles Foley, Lewis, Anderson and Ford owners, reached this port today. The Monterey had a miraculous escape from imprisonment in Alaskan ice floes which now hold twelve other whaling vessels and their crews amounting to four hundred and eighty men. The Monterey was caught in the outer edge of the ice pack but by the skillful work of the captain she was able to force her way through the narrow path to the sea. The Monterey bears the marks of her battle with the ice. Her starboard and port pieces are stove in and most of the gear is gone. Captain Foley says the captive fleet farther north is in grave danger, and the crews must soon fight a battle with starvation. The captain states that the schooner Bonanza was sighted one hundred miles east of Cape Smith and was leaking badly. There is very little hope that she will reach port. The whaler Thresher was also sighted, and as she paid no attention to the warning given was caught in the ice floes. The Monterey brought a cargo of two thousand pounds of bone, the smallest catch of the season.
