Our city council has passed ordinances requiring tax to be paid on all dogs kept in the city, and if not paid the dogs are to be destroyed. Is the law being enforced? If not, why not? There are hundsertion that every owner that values his dog worth any thing has paid the tax. Then why does not the city's Chief executive see to it that the others are killed and save this dreadful annovance to decent people? They are compelling property owners to build concrete and wooden side walks for the convenience of the traveling public, but fail to enforce gard for the sex either.
