CLASH IN SENATE OVER PANAMA APPROPRIATION

Tillman Makes Attack on President and Calls Him Policeman of Hemispheres

(Scripps News Association)

Washington, Dec. 14.—The house and senate today had the first clash over the Panama appropriation bill. The house passed the bill with a provision that the bonds be placed on the same footing as the government two's. The senate killed the provision and passed a separate bill covering the subject matter. It went to the house today where it was killed by a rising vote and returned to the senate with resolutions declaring that the senate had passed the bill originating in the revenue department without constitutional privileges. The criticism of the administration continued in the senate today.

Tillman said, "The President is a brilliant and able worker and I believe he is patriotic and has the country's good at heart. But when he sets himself he is oblivious to the law and tramples under foot the constitution."

Spooner defended the President and became the center of fire from Teller, Tillman and Monroe. Tillman turned sarcasm upon Shonts after a heated debate.

"The attack on the creation of the republic of Panama is the alleged subterfuge. The President is the policeman in the western hemisphere. The senate quietly submits to the house being gagged. The bunch should be arrested and the title acquired by De Lesseps come to the United States."

SENATORS AGREE WITH PRESIDENT'S RATE POLICY

Only Half Dozen Declares Against Roosevelt on the Railroad Question

(Scripps News Association)

Washington, Dec. 15.—The President is looking for a long, hard battle to get his rate regulation law passed. It seems that the fight of last year has been renewed and an extra session may be necessary. The opposition is secret and underhanded. Even in the Senate there are not a half a dozen who are willing to publicly admit that they are opposed to the measure. Elkins declares that he is trying to carry out the President's ideas. Fraken says that he differs technically with him. Kean frankly admits that he believes that the President is either a demagogue or crazy. Others say they want the regulation badly. Wall Street is in the same attitude as last spring.

The Wall Street senators are anxious to serve their friends and campaign trickery is pained as a preliminary step for the senators to demand a delay in the matter until after Christmas.

New York, Dec. 15.—Harriman was the first witness in the insurance investigations today. Hughes immediately plunged into the Ryan negotiations. Harriman said that Ryan told him that he had made enough money and now wanted to do something for the general public to make a name for himself. The witness said that he doubted Ryan's unselfish motives and told him so. He said Ryan asked his aid in the selection of the chairman of the board, but Morton was decided upon as being a good man.

Harriman said that he had received notice that Morton had been elected without his having been notified of the election while the witness was in the office waiting to hear from Ryan. The first he heard was that Ryan had bought all the stock and had elected Morton. Harriman was incensed and said that he had promised to call at Ryan's office to meet Root. He admitted that he had threatened to use his influence against Ryan but denied that it was because Ryan refused to sell but because he was convinced that Ryan's motives were impure.
