SOCIETY

DINNER PARTY

Mrs. T. N. Murphy was hostess yesterday at a most enjoyable dinner party covers being laid for sixteen. The room were appropriately decorated with holly large wreaths and Christmas bells being suspended from the ceiling. The dining table was a sight of beauty, fairly dazzling with cut glass, silver and cut flowers. Mirrors, surrounded with wreaths of holly, with vases of chrysanthemums and carnations in center, formed the table decorations. Tucked under the napkin at each cover were dainty and useful little souvenirs for the guests. Mrs. Murphy is a royal entertainer and a charming hostess. Pleasant memories will always hang around the Christmas of 1905, for those present.

NO TRACE OF ATTORNEY

No trace has been discovered of John F. Fuller, the attorney who early in the week forged the name of W. S. Bowers, his former employer, to a $25 check which he passed on Frank Scott at the Arctic saloon.

Fuller disappeared from Baker City Tuesday, telling his wife and little child that he was going to Portland for a few days. The police have notified the authorities throughout the country of Fuller's crime and sent descriptions of the man to nearly every city in the northwest, but nothing has been heard as to his whereabouts. Constable Yantis, into whose hands the case has been placed, says he is confident he will land his man before long and expects to hear of his capture most any time unless he has succeeded in getting across the line into Canada.—Baker City Herald.
