ALONG THE RIGHT WAY
Contraction of the chest capacity through dropping of the ribs from normal position is one of the chief causes of lung and heart troubles. It causes crowding and every organ must have its allotted room if it is to perform its functions properly and be able to resist disease breeding influences.

Midwinter suggests precautions against colds, la grippe and pneumonia. The best precaution of all is to keep up the resisting powers of the body by attending to it that there is no interference with the nerve impulses or blood nourishment to any part. This is the work of the Osteopath.

If winter ills do come, Osteopathy brings them to their speediest and safest ending. It restores adjustments and relaxes tissues so that the inherent disease-banishing powers of the body may operate normally; and its success in the treatment of the acute troubles common in changeable climates have been extremely gratifying.

Blood poison creeps up toward the heart causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning.
