discussion in which many took part. Miss Lyne then favored the convention with a piano selection. Mr. G. M. Fiddle then followed with a few remarks upon jelly making which was thoroughly discussed. Then Mr. Mason of Home River addressed the meeting upon the subject of 'The Duties of the Fruitgrower.' His remarks were timely and left much food for after consideration on the part of those who have made the growing and marketing of fruit their business. Mr. J. B. Anderson of British Columbia next spoke and used as his subject, Home Grown Treas.

THE MORNING SESSION

Many good papers were read this morning, but the one of most real value was the address delivered by Prof. Ball, who is a specialist regarding the Codling moth. His remarks were illustrated with charts and drawings and contained much genuine information regarding spraying. The professor has made the destruction of the Codling moth his special study for a number of years in the experimental station throughout the United States. The discussion which followed his address was spirited and brought forth the fact that destruction of the fruit pests was considered the most vital to the fruit industry.

AFTERNOON SESSION

When the Fruitgrowers met this afternoon, President Smith introduced Dr. James Withycombe of the State Agricultural College for a talk on clover crops for orchards. Prefacing his remarks Dr. Withycombe gave his attention to the Board of Regents of the Agricultural college, who has been criticised by President Smith as not being a body of practical agriculturists. Withycombe said during the seven years he had been Director of the Experiment Station at Corvallis the enrollment of students taking the course in Agriculture had increased from seven percent to at present when it constituted twenty-five percent of the total enrollment of 680 students. This was a fine growth of attendance of young men studying agriculture, but he hoped to see more of the flower of the farm at that college studying the grandest of all sciences—Agriculture. Part of the fault lay with the parents as said was sent their sons there in too many instances to study in other departments of the College. There was some truth in the criticism of President Smith, and he regretted the fact that often professional politicians were put on the board instead of representative agriculturists. Prof. Withycombe got a round of applause at the close of his remarks, and then went on to expatiate on the merits of vetches and clovers as cover crops to restore the humus of the soil.
Seattle was decided upon as the next place of meeting.

HAS NO TERRORS FOR HER

All This Girl's Good Luck and Her Wedding, Too, Falls on the Unlucky Day.
Urbana, O.—Miss Onda McCowan, of Urbana, is the guest of Mrs. L. G. Weaver, and is spending of her vacation in Urbana. Her betrothal to Mr. E. J. Henry, of Urbana, is the subject of conversation. A remark which is rarely observed in the case of prospective matrimonial partners, is that the betrothal is a superstitious belief in the general to play a heavy part in the marriage.
Mr. Henry is employed at Franklin as an operator for the Western Union, but he was leaving at Avonport at his present acquaintance with Miss McCowan, and her first meeting was on the thirteenth day of the month. The proposal was also made on the thirteenth day of the month. A lady has just been given in honor of Mr. Henry to be on the thirteenth day of this month. The bridegroom of the day was announced on the thirteenth day of the month.

The ring ceremony around the neck of the bride that ends was transferred to the thirteenth day of the month, and in selecting the date of the nuptial event it was deemed wiser to stipulate the thirteenth day of the month as the time for appearing before Hymen.

Pig Has Elephant Trunk.

L. C. Dayton of Mattituck, L. I., a well-known young farmer, has a freak pig with an elephant trunk and an elephant's trunk. The little fellow was born two or three days ago and lived but about two hours. It is now carefully preserved in alcohol, and creates great interest among farmers and scientists, many of them driving several miles to see the curiosity.

NORTHWESTERN LINE REPRESENTATION

Attending the meetings of the Fruitgrowers Association are Mr. W. A. Cox, general agent, and C. J. Gray, traveling agent of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway. Their presence at a fruitgrowers' meeting is explained by the fact that the Northwestern is a favorite line with fruit shippers. In speaking of the movement of fruit from his territory, Mr. Cox called attention to the fact that a record of cars for this season shows that all but one made the distance from Missouri River to Chicago in 16 hours. The one exception being in the case of a car with a broken truck, causing delay for repairs.

The feature, said Mr. Cox, "which seems to have been overlooked in the preparation of the programme for the meeting is the subject of advertising and development of markets. The former subject appeals to a railroad man particularly, as of course railroads are the greatest advertisers in the country."

While on this subject Mr. Cox stated that he had secured from several of the Development Leagues through the state quantities of local advertising matter which had been forwarded east for distribution through the eastern railway routes. Baker City alone sending several thousand copies. This opportunity was offered the Commercial Club of La Grande but we have heard of no action having been taken.

SPORTS

BASKET BALL TONIGHT

Don't forget that this is the night when the Militia is going on the war path to pull their percentage column out of the cellar.

If they don't win tonight their percentage will still remain at zero at least until they get a chance to play the High School again. But right there is where the Commercial Club team says they will play.

Are they right? Come out tonight and see for it will be the swiftest game that has yet been played. Each team has fully developed some speedy new players.
