BIG TRAVEL PREDICTED

A bigger travel to the northwest than during the Lewis and Clark exposition year is predicted for the summer by W. A. Cox, general agent of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, who has just returned from a business trip to Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Indianapolis and other points.

"If the railroads put on summer rates that are now under consideration in the east, I positively believe the travel to this coast this year will equal if it does not exceed, that of last year in Portland," is the way Mr. Cox puts it.

This statement, coming seriously from one of the best informed railroad traffic men, fresh from the middle west and eastern territory, from which Oregon expects to draw investors, settlers and tourists this year, will surprise most people. It is said that few realize the immense travel that will come from the east to the Pacific coast this year.

Mr. Cox closely observed indications that came within his view on the trip east, and his opinion is based on personal knowledge of what he saw and heard. He says the people who came to the Lewis and Clark fair have done an immense amount of effective advertising for the Pacific northwest, and not only are many of the same people coming back, but thousands of others whom they have told of the resources, opportunities and general favorable conditions here.

"OLD IRONSIDES"

A suggestion made in the annual report of the secretary of the navy of the possible destruction of the historic old frigate Constitution awakened new interest in the preservation of the ship, which found expression in the presentation to Congress of a great petition signed by more than 30,000 citizens of Massachusetts. The petition, enclosed in a bronze roll, was presented in the House by Mr. McCall January 18, and was received with cheers. The House adopted a resolution directing the committee on naval affairs to ascertain the annual cost of proper care of the ship.
