NATIONAL GRANGE IS GROWING

The grange organization is now 38 years old. It is no longer a theory, an experiment or an untried plan. It has been weighed in the balance and not found wanting. It has reached man's estate. It has put away childish things. If there has been no good in it, it never could have lasted all these years. Farmers' clubs and other local societies do good, much good, but their influence is local and not widespread. The grange covers the whole country. It is local, state and national in its work. A single grange has strength but strength united is stronger.

Some have said that it is not the business of private men to meddle with government—a bold and dishonest saying, which is fit to come from no mouth but that of a tyrant or a slave. To say that men have nothing to do with government is to say that men have nothing to do with their own happiness; that people ought not to concern themselves whether they be naked or clothed, fed or starved, deceived or instructed, protected or destroyed.

HINTS FOR THE NEW ORANGE

Live up strictly to obligations and terms of your charter. Never break law. We have no organization if we do not respect and obey all the rules and regulations. Study the grange. Learn what it is. Know what the grange is, and then put it into practice. Work for success and success will come. Be punctual. Open and close on the hour. Have a program prepared ahead. Have plenty of music. Encourage the young people to come in. Start a library. See that every family takes and reads our paper with its grange news and work. Keep posted. Make your grange hall pleasant and attractive. Make degree work impressive without books, if possible. Visit other granges. Be sociable and neighborly. Build carefully, but surely. Strength does not always consist in numbers. Pull together. Remember the grange precept; "In essentials unity, in nonessentials liberty. In all things hearty"—Orange Judd Farmer

ADJUSTING THE HUMAN MACHINE

MONTHLY TORTURE RELIEVED

Here is another case before us—a girl of eighteen. Ever since maturity she has suffered at intervals—torments indescribable; her life instead of being a continuous realization of Nature's sweetest gifts during these, the choicest moments of her life, seems strangely fashioned. Medicine is worse than useless. What can Osteopathy do? It finds some segments of the lumbar spine in wrong position, and adjusting the same—cures the invalid. The machine adjusted goes about its work in harmony. Ask this child as to the danger in Osteopathy, and she will laugh and reply that she loves it for its easement of pain and lack of danger.

SEARCH FOR MECHANICAL DISORDER

So we might continue, but will forbear. Hosts of men, women and children walking the earth are living witnesses to the utility of the science of Osteopathy, and the truth and common sense of this osteopathic idea of examining man and woman mechanically, for a reasonable, explainable, remediable cause cause for disease, and its removal mechanically.

The sewing machine was wonderful, but it all hinged on the needle with an eye near the point; the telephone is wonderful, but in what does it differ from the middle and external ear? Simply a disc upon which vibrations play. Osteopathy, we are told, is too wonderful to be true; on the contrary, it is fully as simple as the telephone. Man needs no poison poured into his stomach; he rarely needs his abdomen opened by the knife, his nose burnt out, or his sphincter mutilated. Osteopathy is proving that the cause of the disorder in the instances is largely mechanical, resulting in nerve pressure and retardation of blood flow, and often remote from the region of pain.

WIDELY RECOGNIZED IN STATUES

If people had not been helped, Osteopathy would have "died a-borning," but, instead of this catastrophe, it is now a very healthy adult, recognized by the statues of more than two-thirds of the states of this Union and the time is at hand when the family physician will be obliged to learn how to relieve headache and cramps of the bowels and to reduce fever at once, instead of leaving it for Mother Nature to accomplish through the uncertain meditation—of drugs.—Osteopathic Health.

WOMEN WHO EARN THEIR LIVING

It has been frequently estimated that a third of the women in the United States—exclusive of farmers wives—are earning their own living. (The farmers' wives earn it, honestly enough; but whether they get it or not, is another question)

Where a century ago the main occupation allowed to women was house service, with a little sewing and nursing of the lower grades; now the nurses are trained nurses, the seamstress has become the prosperous dressmaker, even the house-servant is on the verge of organization and advancement.

Quite beyond these ancient lines of service our modern women are steadily increasing in numbers in every kind of human work. Some statistics gathered from the last census showed women engaged even in such occupations as these:

|-------------------------------|-------|
| Stock raisers and drovers | 1,947 |
| Lumbermen | 100 |
| Woodchoppers | 113 |
| Civil engineers and surveyors | 84 |
| Longshoremen | 12 |
| Stevedores | 21 |
| Watchmen and policemen | 879 |
| Boatmen and sailors | 154 |
| Pilots | 5 |
| Carriage and hack drivers | 43 |
| Blacksmiths | 196 |
| Railway baggagemen | 10 |
| Brakemen | 31 |
| Conductors | 7 |
| Switchmen and yardmen | 25 |
| Ship carpenters | 5 |
| Masons | 167 |
| Plumbers and fitters | 126 |
| Fishermen and oystermen | 1,805 |
| Miners and quarrymen | 1,370 |
| Authors and scientists | 2,616 |

and 1,320 women as "guides, trappers hunters and scouts."

These last are amazing trades for wives and mothers surely; and probably are pursued by those yet unmarried or whose children are grown; but they serve as a starting index to the latitude of professions now open to women.—Charlotte Perkins Gilman in Woman's Home Companion for February.

Illinois ranks first among the states in inventive genius, according to the report of the commissioner of patents. New York leads in the number of patents granted last year, with a total of 4,392, but Illinois is ahead in proportion to inhabitants, with a total of 2,923, or one to every 1,649 to population.

At the poultry show in Boston last week a hen sold for $750. In political economy, size considered, the hen has strong grounds for claiming first prize among domestic animals.
