THE DOCTOR OF OSTEOPATHY

WHAT HIS TITLE MEANS.—HOW HE GETS IT.—AND THE PARTICULAR ABILITIES ACQUIRED IN HIS LONG COURSE OF TRAINING

The graduate of a recognized college of Osteopathy, after a long and exhaustive study of the highest authority in anatomy, physiology, pathology, diagnosis, therapeutics, and all kindred branches is awarded a diploma that gives him the legal right to the title of Doctor of Osteopathy. That is the only title that he wishes, for he makes no pretense of practicing medicine, the word medicine being generally accepted as meaning drugs.

The abbreviation of the title of Doctor of Osteopathy is D. O., and the province of the D. O. is to help nature in the human body to right herself. He believes that drugs are not only necessary, but distinctly damaging, and that the body is a very perfect machine that will run along smoothly if supplied with the proper fuel (food), and if none of its parts get out of position.

REPAIRING THE STRUCTURE

But, while the most perfect of machines it is also the most delicate, and derangement of its parts can be brought about in scores of ways. Falls, jars, strains, undue exertions, and local contractions or relaxations due to changes in temperature, are only a few of the things that may cause trouble in this delicate mechanism. Sometimes the effects are immediately apparent, sometimes long delayed.

It is for the special work of finding the derangement and rectifying it that the Osteopathic physician is trained. He is a master mechanic, and when anything is wrong with a machine it is the master mechanic whose services should be called in. If some little part has slipped out of place, the resulting trouble may be at a distant part of the mechanism, and any but the trained expert would be likely to attempt repairs in the wrong place and work further damage. But the skilled workman does nothing until he has made thorough examination and found that little part that has slipped out of place. Then his training enables him to replace it. That is the work of the Osteopathic physician.

If you want an opinion as to the value of Osteopathic treatment, do not make the mistake of consulting anyone whose whole training has been along other lines. Ask someone who has had experience with the system and knows; or, better yet, go to a good Osteopath and give him the opportunity to demonstrate the thing to you.—The Right Way.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up toward the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at Newlin's Drug Store.

A MODERN MIRACLE

"Truly miraculous seemed the recovery of Mrs. Mollie Holt of this place," writes J. O. R. Hooper, Woodford, Tenn., "she was so wasted by coughing up pus from her lungs. Doctors declared her end so near that her family had watched by her bed-side forty-eight hours; when, at my urgent request Dr. King's New Discovery was given her; and with the astonishing result that improvement began, and continued until she finally completely recovered, and is a healthy woman today." 50c and $1.00 at NEWLIN DRUG CO. A New Magazine for You

I am bringing out another new magazine that you will come pretty close to liking. I wouldn't be surprised if it hit you harder than anything in the shape of a magazine you have ever seen. There isn't much style to it, but it has the stuff in it that you and everybody else will want to read. It is called

THE SCRAP BOOK

Something New in Magazine Making

THE SCRAP BOOK is the most elastic thing that ever happened in the way of a magazine—elastic enough to carry anything from a tin whistle to a battleship. Everything that appeals to the human brain and human heart comes within its compass—fiction, which is the backbone of periodical circulation; biography, review, philosophy, science, art, poetry, wit, humor, pathos, satire, the weird, the mystical—everything that can be classified and everything that cannot be classified. A paragraph, a little bit, a saying, an editorial, a joke, a maxim, an epigram.

Nothing Like It in the World

There isn't anything in the world just like THE SCRAP BOOK. It is an idea of which we have been working for several years, and for which we have been gathering materials. We have bought hundreds and hundreds of scrap books from all over the country, some of them a century old, and are still buying them. From these books we are gathering and classifying an enormous number of gems, and facts and figures, and historical and personal bits that are of rare value. Furthermore, we have a corps of people rummaging libraries, reading all the current publications, the leading daily papers, cyclopedia, etc., etc.

Don't fail to get a copy of this first issue of THE SCRAP BOOK. It sells at the price at which all our other magazines sell—Ten Cents a Copy and One Dollar by the Year.
