CHILDREN-POSTURAL DEFECTS

Dr. George M. Gould in the "Medical Record," declares: "There is probably not a school desk in all the world constructed upon physiological principles. Think of the millions of morbidly right shoulders of the millions of necks, and backs thus twisted and wrenched WITH ALL RESULTANT DISEASE THERE FROM!"

Dr. Gould's article does more than bring this wrong to public notice. It justifies the Osteopathic argument that disease results from deformities of the bony framework. In connection with the bony framework. In connection with the ever lengthening school year, it accounts for the increasing number of children with glasses, with anaemia, with the many and persistent organic diseases. This is what the Osteopaths are preaching, and is, in fact, the very basis of the system; but here it is from the Old School.

Fortunately for the children of today, Osteopathy is able to correct these deformities, which are nothing more nor less than Osteopathic "lessons," misadjustments so often mentioned, and thus comes the ailment.

VALENCIA WRECK HAS TAUGHT AWFUL LESSON

(Scripps News Association)

Washington, Feb. 26.—The earnest efforts of the members of Congress from the Pacific coast, coupled with the dreadful lesson taught by the Valencia disaster will bring about the authorization of at least one first class revenue cutter for use about Puget Sound, during the present session of Congress; and will, in time bring about the building of an adequate fleet. Just at present the Republican leaders are shouting "Economy" so loudly that they cannot hear the needs of the country spoken in an ordinary tone of voice, and the Coast may deem itself lucky to get at least one new ship to guard the dangerous rocks of Washington.

In a report just made by Congressman Cushman of Washington from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which has charge of the bill authorizing the revenue cutter, he says

"This vessel is needed to replace the revenue cutter Grant, now performing service in that district a vessel that is not now suitable on account of age and the effects of continuous service to properly perform duties devolving upon a vessel stationed in those waters. The numerous gales prevailing in this vicinity and the large amount of shipping constantly passing along this coast to and from the important ports situated on Puget Sound, render it necessary that a first class sufficient vessel should be available to render immediate assistance when required. There are about 1,100 documented vessels of the United States in the district of Puget Sound, a large number being steamers, and these require constant supervision and inspection in the enforcement of the navigation and customs laws. The vessel proposed will be a strong factor contributing to the laws."

DOES ANY ONE KNOW ANY THING REGARDING CHILD

If the editor of every paper in the central west will republish these lines there is no question but what Dr. S. L. Byers, Seelyville, Ind., will recover his little son who was stolen from his home one year ago last May. Dr. Byers has spent his entire resources in search for his child and unless the big-hearted members of the press come to his assistance his son will grow up an outlaw and an outcast among the lowest people of the earth. It is a cause that should appeal to everyone and no father reading these lines can do so without a quickening of the heart and a sympathetic throb. It is believed that this article is reprinted in the newspapers it will form an endless chain that will uncover the lost boy's concealment and return him to his distracted parents. In doing this the profession of journalism will be fulfilling one of its highest destinies. Publishers whose circulation touch the Wabash, Ohio and Mississippi valleys are especially requested to reproduce this story of the lost child, as Dr. Byers believes his boy is now in some boathouse waiting to take the road in the spring. There is a reward of $500 awaiting any information that will lead to the boy's recovery. No questions will be asked and if the abductor himself would deliver the boy to his parents he would not be molested.

This appeal is indited originally by a publisher who saw Dr. Byers only once, has no personal interest in his quest other than the bond of sympathy that makes the world akin, and is inspired from the relief that the lost boy can only be found through the united effort of the country press, of which he is proud to be a member.

The following is a description of the lost boy:

DESCRIPTION

Richmond Byers, if alive, was six years old last July, is of light complexion, has gray eyes, left eye noticeably crossed, has a small V-shaped nick in the edge of left ear, has a sharp chin and a narrow projecting forehead. He is rather small from his age and is unusually bright and intelligent, taking after the manner of a boy much older.

Dr. Byers has searched among the roving bands that frequent the United States and believes that his son can be found among traveling junk dealers, so-called horse traders or movers. He does not think the boy was stolen by genuine gypsies. He thinks he was taken by a wandering band that used him for the purpose of begging in the towns along the route.—Times, New Harmony, Ind. REPORT OF SALMON FISHERIES

(Scripps News Association)

Washington, February 26.—An interesting report on the salmon fisheries of Alaska has just been issued by the department of commerce and labor. Howard M. Kutchin, the agent who prepared the report did some traveling according to his tell, while on the assignment. Says he: "I left Washington May 28, and between that time and my return traveled 8,242 miles by sea and 7,822 by land, a total of 16,069 miles. The time spent aboard ship was eighty-seven days. About 260 miles were covered in launch and small boat.

"Although the salmon pack at some fisheries outside of Alaska shows a falling off, the pack of the world for this year was nearly a million and a half cases greater than last. The total number of canneries in operation this year was 47 against 55 in 1904. There were 22 salteries, against 18 last season. The number of firms or individuals engaged in the business is 45, against 40 in 1904. The aggregate capital stock employed in the business is $11,471,150, being a decrease in this item of $2,676,350 from the reported capitalization of last year. This reduction is largely accounted for by the withdrawal from the field of the Pacific Packing and Navigation Company, which represented a capital of $5,000,000. The Northwestern Fisheries Company, which succeeded to the ownership of the major part of its business, is capitalized at $1,000,000. The value of plants is placed at $3,728,978, being $156,878 less than last year, which is due to the fact that a number of canneries are idle and are not taken account of. The season's pack totals 1,889,015 cans and 18,881 barrels together with 7,585,009 pounds of dry-salted fish. In 1904 the aggregate was 1,953,746 cases and 15,407. Being reduced to cases, the figures are 2,059,119 for 1905 against 2,012,928 in 1904. While there is actually a loss of 64,731 cases of canned salmon, the total output for the year shows a gain of the equivalent of 46,191 cases, which is explained by the large increase of salted and dry-cured fish. The total value of the product amounts to $6,563,655 against $7,735,782 last year."

The blacksmith shops in the city are busy sharpening plows which is a sign that spring is almost due.

AMUSEMENTS

NEVER BETTER

One of the realistic scenes in "Hooligan in New York" which will be seen for the first time in La Grande at Steward's opera house, Tuesday, Feb. 27, is the actual reproduction of an opium joint in Mott Street, in the heart of New York's Chinatown. The scene shows a Chinese laundry and back of it the den where wretched victims of the drug inhale the poppy fumes. Mr. Kenyon, under whose supervision this scene was produced, was formerly an attaché of the United States legation at Hong Kong. While there he learned to speak the language of the country and on his return to New York he made a careful study of the Chinese quarter of that city. His ability to converse with them in their native tongue gave him opportunities which few white men of education have secured, and he has staged a scene which is thrillingly realistic and correct in every detail.
