A STUDY IN BACKS

The ignorance of the average layman regarding his own anatomy is a matter of constant wonder to the Osteopathic physician. This is particularly regarding the back. Many people have a vague idea regarding the geography of the stomach, liver, tonsils, and a few other things inside, but of their backs they are absolutely ignorant. "There isn't anything in the back, anyway," they will say, "it's just the back—that's all." Thus is this part of the anatomy dismissed from consideration.

Yes, of course, they have backaches, lumbago, rheumatism, round shoulders curvatures etc., but that doesn't make any difference. They continue to put on plasters and liniments, rub in iodine, and use hot water bottles, but they do not devote any more thought to the poor neglected back itself.

Let them go the average medical adviser and describe their aches and pains. What does he do? Does he examine the back? Oh, no! He asks a lot of questions and concludes the matter by announcing that the pain is only a "reflex" from pelvic or abdominal organs, or is caused by a "general run down condition," or "the blood is poor," and he prescribes a tonic or some preparation of iron, or treatment for some part of the front of the body—nothing for the back!

Now, is this in accord with the clear teachings of anatomy and physiology? Let us see. The growth, action and health of every part of the body depends primarily upon its nerve supply. The spinal cord, which is contained within the "back-bone" is the center and switch-board of the nervous system for the trunk and from it and to it go practically all the nerves in the body except those in the head. Any pressure upon or any irritation of the nerve produced an abnormal effect upon the organ to which it goes. Consequently any irregularity in the back-bone or ribs or spinal muscles may result in disease or pain or weakness in some organ.

This is the basic principle of anatomy and physiology, but has been largely ignored by the medical profession until very recently. The doctor has been accustomed to examine the front of the body exclusively, except when there was some specific injury or sore on the back. He had forgotten the basic principles of the body in his strenuous race to keep up with the additions to his list of supposed remedies.

The very fact that the medical profession ignored the back was the opportunity for the birth of a new school of practice—Osteopathy. This school stepped into the breach and has astonished the scientific world by its ready demonstrations of its theory, what the body, as a machine, can be treated exclusively from the mechanical point of view and without any internal medication whatsoever. The back-bone, being the central axis of the body, must of necessity be the structure to receive the greatest consideration of the disciple of the new school. So this is the reason that humanity in the year of grace, 1906, is paying more attention to its backs than ever before.

"I ran my hand up and down his spine," said a prominent medical practitioner to me a while ago, referring to a patient who became afflicted with a sudden form of paralysis of the legs which threatened to retire him from business, "and I found a couple of places that seemed to be sensitive. I thought that there might be something wrong there, but you Osteopaths know more about that thing than we do, so I sent him over to you. I can't help him any with medicine."

Osteopathic diagnosis disclosed a slight displacement of several vertebrae in that part of the back from which the nerves go to the legs. In a few treatments these bones were put back where they belonged and the patient recovered permanently his normal gait. I tell this to illustrate the fact that the honest medical physician recognizes in his practice the fact that the new school does things which before remained undone.—Osteopathic Health.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up toward the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores 25c at Newlin's Drug Store.

A MODERN MIRACLE

"Truly miraculous seemed the recovery of Mrs. Mollie Holt of this place," writes J. O. R. Hooper, Woodford, Tenn., "she was so wasted by coughing up pus from her lungs. Doctors declared her end so near that her family had watched by her bed-side forty-eight hours; when, at my urgent request Dr. King's New Discovery was given her, and with the astonishing result that improvement began, and continued until she finally completely recovered, and is a healthy woman today." 50c and $1.00 at NEWLIN DRUG CO. Can She Save Them?

Many a poor mother who feels that those she holds most precious are gradually slipping away from her over the terrible precipice of disease, would be thankful to know what Doctor Pierce's wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" has done to restore thousands of weak and wasted children to a complete rounded, rosy, healthy, active life.

"Five years ago this last fall I was taken down with a fever and was very bad for several months," writes Mrs. Henrietta Bell, of Diamond, Ohio. "Finally recovered from the fever, then my lungs became very bad. The doctor said I had consumption, and that he had done all he could for me, and he did not think that I could get well. My case was a very dangerous one. Became very weak, had night sweats, also a very bad cough, night and day. At times would spit blood. I felt as though my time on earth would be short. Requested my husband to get me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and perhaps it would help me. Before I had taken one bottle my cough was almost gone. The next to disappear were the night sweats. I am almost sure that if it had not been for your medicine I would not have been here to-day."

If mothers will only write to Dr. Pierce concerning the ailments of their family he will send them sound and valuable advice in a plain sealed envelope, and without any charge whatever. His remarkably wide experience has qualified him to deal with diseases which trouble the local practitioner. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
