AMUSEMENTS

The gold medals to be given to the debaters in Wednesday night's contest are now on exhibition in the window of Smith's jewelry store. They are of very pleasing design and the winners will have something to be proud.

These contests have been very popular since they were inaugurated four years ago. They are entertaining to those who hear them and of great value to those who share in them. There is such a keen desire to win, such an earnest purpose to excel, such a thorough effort to make the strongest showing in the argument that one finds himself an excited partisan before he knows it.

This debate will no doubt be the most exciting ever held here. The subject is one of absorbing interest to every one. The women suffragists will be out in force to cheer their champions on to victory. The high school, radiant in their colors, will be there with their school yells to help their representations. The other side will have their friends also who will do what they can to overthrow the suffragists. It will be a good place for voters to inform themselves. Every argument pro and con will be advanced. The representatives on each side are the best that our schools can produce and are mature enough in judgement to understand the subject very thoroughly. Every man and every woman whose heart is young should be there to encourage the young people in so laudable an effort.

The music, the speaking, the waving of colors, the cheering of boys and girls, the joyous laughter, the smiling faces should so appeal to our people that standing room in Steward's Opera House next Wednesday evening will be at a premium.

FRAZER COMPANY LEAVE LA GRANDE.

The Frazer Theatre Company closed a very successful week's stand here Saturday night. The company want to come back at some future date and La Grande's theatre goers will no doubt have an opportunity of seeing this splendid aggregation of foot light artists again. The company left for Pendleton yesterday.

JUST WHAT THE OSTEOPATH DOES

It is often the case that enthusiastic patients, who have been greatly benefitted by Osteopathy, convey to their friends false impressions of the science in their zealous endeavors to spread the good news of the new healing. For instance, "A Grateful Convert," in a recent letter to one of the New York papers, tells how an Osteopath on examining a patient is able to "detect deviations in nerve tissue or in circulation," which is, of course, not quite technically correct. He is able, however, to detect bony misadjustments or abnormal conditions of the body tissues; and, knowing where the nerves and vessels related to each organ lie, and what their general course of the body is, is readily able to see how these misadjustments, contractions, etc., are capable of causing pressure and trouble. It is his work to restore normal adjustments, relax tissues, and in every possible way bring about anatomical order. And nature does the rest.—Right Way.
