ANOTHER COUNCIL MEETING

The council met last evening to consider principally the recommendations as outlined in a previous message of the mayor.

It is not certain by any means that either the raising of saloon license or an occupation tax will become a law.

The council reconsidered its former action of last meeting and granted L. Remillard a license on Adams Avenue.

The street committee was empowered to arrange for temporary street sprinkling until definite plans could be decided upon. The water superintendent was instructed to shut off the water of all delinquents after the 15th of this month.

Arrangements were made to have the city books expeted and a complete system arranged.
