SAN FRANCISCO LOOKS LIKE MINING CAMP

Buildings Spring up as if by Magic—Temporary Houses and Shacks take Place of Piles of Crumbling Walls

(Scripps News Association) San Francisco May 8.—This city is beginning to look like a mining camp. Hundreds of temporary buildings and many mere shacks are springing up in every direction like magic. The air is filled with flying dust caused by the plaster and mortar which is stirred up by the workmen who are engaged in demolishing the crumbling walls and preparing for the new foundations. The army of men and teams was greatly augmented this morning. Workmen began this morning to shovel the debris from the top stories of the San Francisco hotel which will be ready for occupancy in a short time. One contracting firm today took the contract to build one hundred new buildings and also to clear one hundred lots in the business district. The report here is current upon what is considered good authority, that the New York syndicate which was formed to rebuild the city of San Francisco, is a reality. This greatly encourages the citizens who are going forward on their responsibility to reorganize their business. Those with small credit will be obliged to wait for their insurance money before they can continue with their work of construction. It is now certain that Market street will hold its own and that the city will rebuild practically upon its former lines. So far as the location of the various lines of business is concerned, The United

Railroads now has two thousand two hundred men at work. This is only about eight hundred men less than there was working before the earthquake. Nearly three hundred cars are in operation today. Practically every electric car outside of the burned district is running today. The discovery was made this morning that many cars which were carrying supplies for the Red Cross have been looted enroute and goods taken there from. The matter will be investigated.
