Unless there is a change in the manner of doing business in the city council, history will repeat itself and there will be little actual work accomplished this year. However let us all hope for the best.

The city says that yards must be cleaned, streets cleaned and no more irrigation ditches can be dug. That's as far as it goes. The people pay no attention to it and there is no known attempt at enforcement.—Baker City Herald.

Let every Republican attend the meeting tonight at the Opera House. This county must take its proper place in the Republican line, and one of the means of attaining this end is to turn out tonight and assist in according the next governor a royal reception.

The Tribune would be glad to become interested in Judge W. R. Ellis' campaign if there was anything to be said in addition to what has been said. If he has any opponent we should like to know who he is. But when he is Congressman Ellis we expect to have more to say about him.—Pendleton Tribune.

The average farmer is always overwhelmed with work and this is the explanation of the untidy appearance of many farms. And yet, somehow, the farmer that prosper are more apt than others to be those who have always kept things looking attractive about their places. It is going to pay the farmers of Eastern Oregon individually and collectively to make things look attractive on the farm. It is worth a great deal of money to a country to be attractive in appearance and we have great possibilities in that line.

The "Made-in-Oregon" carnival which is to be held in Portland May 19 to 26 can hardly fail to be of benefit to the state. It will call attention to a large number of articles produced in this state which are equal in quality and as low in price as those made elsewhere, but which are discriminated against because the people of the state give the preference to the goods brought from a distance. If everybody in Oregon would give the preference to Oregon made products when prices and quality are on a par with the competing articles there would be a growth of manufacturing in the state which would surprise everybody.—The Rural Northwest.

Union voted as a body in the primaries and will do so again in June. On the vital point those opposed to county division must follow the precedent set by Union. If they do you will never hear of county division again. Two years more and the industrial interests of this county will have so changed that the suggestion of dividing Grande Ronde valley into two separate municipalities will be looked upon as fanatical.

On another page appears a statement of the sugar beet acreage for the present year. It will be seen that the acreage this year is the largest ever planted in this valley. In fact some twelve hundred acres more land is devoted to beets this year than ever before. The sugar beet industry in this valley adds many thousands of dollars to the circulating medium of the county each season.

FRUIT CROPS ARE DAMAGED

Last night put the finishing touches on the fruit crop of Baker valley and it also put a great many gardens out of commission. It was one of the coldest May nights on record and ice a quarter of an inch thick formed on the pools of standing water. There is no doubt but the fruit crop in the immediate Baker valley is badly damaged if not entirely ruined. The gardens are also badly damaged and there may be a dearth of fresh vegetables for the early season.

Yesterday it was rainy and blustering all day with snow falling on the mountains. There was cold north wind sweeping up the valley and in the afternoon there was a snow flurry which made the foot hills look very white. The sky cleared about midnight and the wind went down with the result the thermometer took a tumble and jack frost nipped the fruit and green vegetables. Reports Eagle and Pine valleys say that the fruit is not damaged over there. And it is not known just what the extent of the damage is in Baker valley.

The spring had been exceedingly dry up to the last few days and over portions of the Inland Empire where crops are raised without irrigation the wheat has suffered. But commencing this week heavy rains fell and the indications are now that there will be an average wheat crop this year.—Baker City Herald
