ENOUGH FOR ONE FAMILY

That the Oliver family have been fairly successful recipients of public favors is attested by the continuation of their names upon the county payroll for a period of twenty years, and now comes J. R. Oliver as a candidate for county judge for another four years' service.

Dating back to 1886, Mr. Turner Oliver entered the clerk's office as a deputy under A. T. Neill, whom he succeeded three years later. Upon being elected in 1890, Mr. Turner Oliver made his brother Jack a deputy which position he filled for four years, or until he was elected clerk, which position he held four years until 1898. Under Jack's administration, brother Charley was made a deputy, with the idea of being groomed for the next successor but the opposition to this family succession proved too strong and Brother Charley was retired and the political wires were successfully laid for the mantle of Jack to fall upon Geo. Benson, with the understanding that Jack was to be continued upon the county payroll as deputy, and he was. The records also show that Mrs. J. R. Oliver was upon the payroll from time to time.

Union county has paid this family in warrants $47,000 and after a brief relaxation, now comes Jack back for another four years pull at the county seat.

The $47,000 mentioned above represents only a portion of the emoluments for eight years of this period the office was under the fee system and a flat salary. It is safe to say that $25,000 could easily be added to the $47,000.

It is a well known fact that upon the removal of the county seat to La Grande Mr. J. R. Oliver was compelled to move to this city in order to successfully continue his extensive abstract business which is second to none in Eastern Oregon and upon reaching this city made persistent attempts to secure office rooms in the court house but under the lease from the city of La Grande this was not permissible.

Jack has a long head, all right. His many years of experience in the court house taught him the advantage to be gained by having his office in the same building and after failing to gain admission, he commenced laying his wires and secured the nomination for county judge. Now Jack does not really care so much for the office which only pays $1200 per year as he does for the opportunity to get his abstract office into the court house.

On the face of the returns of the primary it seems rather strange that in the Union precincts Mr. Oliver received every Democratic vote with the exception of three. The following may furnish the needed explanation: Upon several occasions Mr. J. R. Oliver appeared before the county court seeking to obtain an option on the county buildings at Union. Owing to the fact that the court realized that it would be impossible to secure anything like the true value of the property, the proposition was not considered. Mr. Oliver later appeared before the court and asked that the property be offered for sale to the highest bidder, this for similar reasons was not considered.

Union is planning skilful politics. She votes as a unite on every proposition in which she is interested and her sole object is to again become a county seat, through the formation of a new county. Now if Union secured the old county buildings for a song, they could go before the people and legislature, with the fact that they have a court house to the new county free. Mr. Harrison defeated the, very scheme that Mr. Oliver tried to secure for them. The Union vote shows in whom they expected to find a friend at court. They have no independent candidate for county judge.
