PICTURES TONIGHT

Despite the inclement weather and the opposition of a fair sized audience gathered at the Frazer theater last night to see the San Francisco Earthquake and Fire and it is needless to say they received their money's worth as no one has yet taken advantage of the offer of the management to refund the admission price to anyone who complained that the show was not all it was represented to be.

These are the only set of real moving pictures of the San Francisco on the Pacific coast and it takes two hours to show the complete set comprising the best thing of its kind ever attempted. No one should miss this opportunity to see the ruins of the famous city. Tonight at Stewarts Opera House.

COMMISSIONS FOR ENLISTED MEN

(Scripps News Association)
Fort Leavenworth, Kan. June 19—More than thirty enlisted men of the army will be placed under instructions here during the next two months, in preparation for their final examination for appointment a second lieutenant in the army. These candidates will have to their credit the commissions which remain vacant after the appointment of the graduates of the Military Academy later this month. It is within the power of the Secretary of War to divide the remaining vacancies between the qualified enlisted men and such civilians as he may select from a list of several hundred applications from the source. There is great interest, the military authorities find, in these appointments and the civilians show a great desire to enter the army at a time when promotion to higher grades threatens to be more impeded than ever before. This prospect of stagnation is a vertiable problem which army officers have undertaken to solve; the most formidable of the measures of relief being a system of elimination devised by General William Crozier, the chief of ordnance of the army. The enlisted men who have come up for special instruction, with a view to appointment to army commissions, are not at all disheartened by the prospect, and probably a knowledge of the unpromising outlook of being old lieutenants does not deter civilians with military ambition from sending in their applications.
