HISTORY OF HOLY ROLLERISM

Holy Rollerism, as taught by "Joshua" Creffield, had its inception at Corvallis, Ore., in the spring of 1905. Creffield held campmeetings and succeeded in getting a group of followers at once.

Previous to this he had been a Salvation Army worker. He was born in Germany and was a deserter from the German army.

On the night of January 4, 1904, his fanatical teachings had gone to such lengths that indignant fathers and husbands of Corvallis women took him out and gave him a coat of tar and feathers. They gave similar treatment to one of his male followers, C. Brooks. The men were warned that they would be killed should they ever return to Corvallis.

The next day Creffield returned covertly and was secreted by the Hurt women under the floor of their home. Here he dispensed with his clothing, proclaimed himself a prophet of God and carried on his revolting orgies in the name of religion.

July 28, 1904, Creffield's hiding place became known and he was taken out and put in jail.

In the mean time, Esther Mitchell, because of his influence over her, had been sent to the Boys and Girls' society. After being kept there a few weeks, she was sent to her father's home in Illinois. She was not permitted to return to Oregon until Creffield was sent to the penitentiary. Other women, including Mrs. O. V. Hurt, Mae Hurt and Maud Hurt, were sent to the insane asylum for a short time because of Creffield's influence over them while he was secreted under the Hurt residence.

Creffield, a few days after his discovery, was brought to Portland and tried on a statutory charge preferred by Burgess E. Starr, husband of Creffield's eldest sister, a Creffield victim.

In August, Creffield was found guilty. He refused to have a lawyer and tried to clear himself reading passages from the Bible. When found guilty he made no effort to secure leniency, simply stating that, like Christ, he was misunderstood.

Soon after Creffield went to prison, his wife, Maud Hurt Creffield, secured a divorce. There were no further Holy Roller demonstrations, and seemingly the dangerous cult was broken up. Early in February of 1906, Creffield's sentence was commuted by good behavior, and he left the state prison, going to California. From there he got in correspondence with his former wife, who had remained with her father O. V. Hurt at Corvallis. A reconciliation was effected. Creffield returned to the vicinity of Corvallis and got a number of women and one man Frank Hurt, to go to a lonely spot on the beach in Lincoln county. His purpose was to found a Holy Roller colony. He made particular efforts to secure Esther Mitchell to his keeping, saying she was to be the mother of a second Christ, who was to be born to the world.

Late in April of this year, Mitchell, after being released from the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland, where he had been confined with an attack of measles, declared to close friends his intention of killing Creffield. He told several persons God had told him to remove the Holy Roller from the earth for ruining his sisters. About May 1 Mitchell went to Albany in search of Creffield. While there he saw Maud Hurt Creffield, and by following her learned that Creffield was in Seattle. The Holy Roller prophet had gone there supposedly for the purpose of raising funds for the camp on the coast.

May 7, early in the morning Creffield and Maud Hurt Creffield, whom he had remarried, started down town to do some shopping. As they passed down First avenue, Mitchell stepped suddenly behind Creffield and shot him dead. Ester Mitchell at once denounced the act, and seemed to care nothing as to the fate of her brother. She maintained this attitude throughout his trial.

July 10, after being on trial for 11 days, Mitchell was acquitted by a jury in the superior court, after an hour and 25 minutes of deliberation.

July 11, about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Esther Mitchell, at the instigation of the widow of Holy Roller Creffield, treacherously shot and killed her brother George in the depot at Seattle.

DIED SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE

How frequently does a head line similar to the above greet us in the newspapers. The rash, push and strenuousness of the American people has a strong tendency to lead up to various and other affections of the heart, attended by irregular action, palpitation, distress, smothered emotions and other distressing symptoms.

Three of the prominent ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made are recommended by some of the leading writers on Arterio Sclerosis for the cure of just such cases. Golden Seal root, for instance, is said by the UNITED STATES DISPENSARY, a standard authority, "to impart tone and increased power to the heart's action." Numerous other leading authorities represent Golden Seal as an unsurpassed tonic for the muscular system in general, and as the heart is almost wholly composed of muscular tissue, it naturally follows that it must be greatly strengthened by this superb, general tonic. But probably the most important ingredient of "Golden Medical Discovery," so far as its marvelous cures of valvular and other affections of the heart are concerned, is Stone root, or Collinsonia Can., Prof. Wm. F. Felt, author of Felt's Epitome of Medicine, says of it:

"A most interesting patient who was somewhat oppressed with valvular disease of the heart that his friends were obliged to carry him away. He, however, gradually recovered under the influence of Collinsonia medicinal principle extracted from Stone root, and is now attending to his business. Heretofore physicians knew of no remedy for the removal of so distressing and so dangerous a malady. With them it was all over—death. It fearfully warned the afflicted that death was near at hand. Collinsonia unquestionably affords relief in such cases, and in most instances effects a cure."

Stone root is also recommended by Drs. Hale and Billingswood, of Chicago, for valvular and other diseases of the heart. The latter says: "It is a heart tonic of direct and permanent influence."

"Golden Medical Discovery," not only cures serious heart affections, but is a most efficient general tonic and invigorator, strengthening the stomach, invigorating the liver, regulating the bowels and curing catarrhs, affections in all parts of the system.
