WORK FOR NAVY YARD

(Scripps News Association)
 Brooklyn, N. Y., July 21—Instructions have been sent to Naval Constructor W. J. Baxter, head of the department of construction and repair at the Brooklyn navy yard, to proceed without further delay with the work on the battleship Connecticut and the collier Vestal. It is expected that the Connecticut will be ready for service within three months, after the delay of about that time in the completion of the ship owing to the exhaustion of the funds for the work as originally allotted to Congress. The collier will be built by yard labor, in the steel material to be purchased under contract. Bids for it will be invited before the end of the week by the Bureau of supplies and accounts. At the same time a contract will be awarded for the sister collier, the Prometheus, to be built at the Mare Island navy yard, where there has been installed a traveling crane and other appliances for ship construction.

AMUSEMENTS

SHIRT WAIST PARTY A SUCCESS

A jolly crowd gathered at the commercial club last evening and to the sweet strains of the orchestra, danced to their hearts content. Every gentleman present took advantage of the permission to wear shirt waists, and the usual "perspiration" was noticeable for its absence. Several attended from out of town and had many good things to say about the music.

JUNIORS FINE ENTERTAINERS

The Juniors of the M. E. Church last evening excelled themselves and entertained with what was really a splendid entertainment. The little folks, under the supervision of Mrs. Reeves and Rev. B. F. A PECULIAR WEAPON

The police are in possession of the pistol or revolver, whichever it may be called, which was used by Gonta the Jap last night during the shooting mixup. It is the most peculiar firearm seen by them, and is practically indescribable. It is some larger than a colt revolver and uses a short but thick bullet. Each cartridge has a little brass pin which is locked in place when inserted in the chamber. It carries six shells. It is plainly of foreign make, but judging from the holes it made in Chas. Mizoguski's house, it is very effectual. A connoisseur of firearms would be repaid by an examination of it.

HE GOT IT IN THE JAW

The Japanese who was arrested early this morning and placed in the city jail for a matter of a few hours this morning astonished Constable McLachlan this afternoon when he went to the jail to bring him down town. The man was covered with red spots, not a few but many, actually covered. McLachlan kept his side of the sidewalk. Upon arrival at the justice of peace office, an examination for smallpox was made, but it was wounds resulting from bites of bed bugs contracted during his brief stay in the city jail.

JAKE GULLING STRICKEN

This morning just prior to going to his breakfast, Conductor Jake Gulling was stricken with a slight stroke of paralysis. Medical aid was promptly called and while this particular stroke is not as bad as first reported, still he is in a critical condition. He is not speechless nor is he disabled completely. He has slight control of his muscles.

FOUR GENERATIONS

This afternoon a party consisting of one family but four generations came into the Taylor studio and posed for a picture. The oldest was Grandma S. Eaton aged seventy-three, the second generation was Mrs. Dexter Eaton, the third Mrs. Joan Ladd, and the fourth, a bright little girl, the daughter of Mrs. John Ladd, aged three years.
