WILL SOON BE A PRODUCER

J. A. Thronson who is down from the Aurelia mines stated to OBSERVER reporter that the new building was nearly completed and that the machinery had been ordered and that would arrive in a few days. In fact a part of the mill proper was now in Hilgard and would be taken to the mines at once. The road to the mine is completed and was one upon which it is real pleasure to travel. Unless something unforeseen happens the mill will be crushing ore by September first. The Aurelia mining Company has expended a great deal of money in developing its property, but Mr. Thronson is sanguine regarding the success of the venture waiting a very short time to place the mine in the producing class.

SPECTACULAR EXHIBITION

The managers of the fair to be held in Walla Walla in October, are endeavoring to arrange for one of the most novel and spectacular exhibitions ever produced in this section and one which will be of particular interest to the people of Walla Walla, says the Walla Union.

The exhibition referred to will consist of a fake murder in front of grandstand or some similar place, after which the supposed criminal will attempt to escape. Harry Draper will arrive on the scene with his famous hounds and the culprit will be tracked and run down. These dogs are trained not only to trail a man but to hold him when he is found, and the performance will be made as interesting and realistic as an actual man hunt. Mr. Draper is training his dogs for this kind of an exhibition and promises to give the crowd the worth of their money.

LAFLIN IS MUCH IMPROVED

A message was received from the Toll Gate last evening announcing the fact that Mill Laflin, the man who was accidentally injured while searching for Cecil Brittan, is very much improved and is resting much easier with good prospects for recovery.

Those who were members of the searching party say that no man was more enthusiastic and no one worked harder to find the boy than did Laflin and he is confident that he would have found the child had not the accident occurred, as he was on a hot trail.—Walla Walla Union.

A NEW ANIMAL

Col. J. F. Tooley is raising a new kind of animal which he calls Bufftory at his large stock ranch near Embra, Wyoming. This new product is very much like cattle only that they have a very heavy coat of hair on the hide resembling the buffalo only more so, the animal lives comfortably during the cold period, grows to immense size and may be skinned yearly which is no small factor as a source of wealth from the hides alone.

Applications for stock of this class are filled now four years in advance.—Ex.

SANTOES HELD OVER

Clyde Santos must appear before the circuit court to answer for his actions of the past week. During his trial yesterday his bride's parents testified that he had not sought their permission in marrying the girl, and their main objection is that the girl is not sixteen. The law of Oregon specifies that unless a girl is sixteen or over, it is an offense to take her away from her parents for marriage, and it is upon this charge that the young man is held. There is no question but that they were legally married, as the county clerk and officiating minister both testified to this. The complaining witnesses seem to have a spite against the young man and say they will fight it through. The bride, though, affirmed that she would remain loyal to her husband no matter what happened. The bonds for the young man's appearance were placed as low as possible and were quickly taken up by friends of the boy, who appear to be numerous.

Had Clyde waited three months longer his troubles would have been considerably less as the girl would then have been sixteen. The outcome of the matter is looked for by many who sympathize with the boy.
