IRRIGATION

I am Irrigation—bright waterfall.
Far in a canyon they build me a wall.
Out of the still lakes, wonderful, deep,
Thrilling with life force—eager I leap.

Kings and philosophers know my command;
The footsteps of children I print in the land.
I am the solver of mysteries old,
As over the desert my flowers unfold.

I am the keeper that turneth the key,
Bidding the people of sorrows go free;
Who runneth with me to the ends of the earth,
He runneth with Plenty and Beauty and Mirth.

I am the finder of valleys unknown—
Of springs in the desert, forgotten and lone;
From snow peaks and pines to the Plains of the Sun,
I finish the work that the maker begun!

Russell Sage did not leave anything whatever to charity, nor did he set aside much for nephews who were looking for so much. He simply made his widow the possessor of it all. He died as he lived, wrshipping money to the end. It is true however, that Mrs. Sage will devote some of the vast fortune to benevolent purposes if she sets out to do so her lot will not an altogether enviable one, for, if the idea should get abroad that she is to dispense benevolence she would be besieged in a few weeks she would have the entire hundred millions spoken for. It would be something like a government bond issue over subscribed by those anxious to secure a share.

The United States geological survey is ever active nowadays investigating coal and oil deposits. In President Roosevelt's message to congress, accompanying the report on the Standard Oil company, he urged that the government take steps to keep from private monopoly such natural deposits as coal and oil as exist in public lands. It is in line with that suggestion that the present investigation is being made. The geological survey is giving particular attention this year to the coal fields of the Rocky Mountain regions.

Work will be carried on in Montana, Washington, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado. The coal fields of Alabama, eastern Kentucky, Virginia and Illinois will be examined later, as well as the great coal fields in northwestern New Mexico. The interior department is giving special attention to the subject.

Too many young men are leaving the farm. The spirit of unrest is in the air. Some men are amassing money rapidly and when the farmer's son hears of this the tendency is unsettling. Farming to him seems a slow way of making money. He, too, must try his hand. He may be an only son. His home may be all that could be desired. His opportunity to distinguish himself in agriculture is ever present, but he must go. Nothing will keep him. In a few instances he follows a mirage which leads him on and on in the realms of non-success. Foolish farmer's sons, why will they act so foolishly? Why do they leave a certainty for an uncertainty? Why do they give up bread for husks? Agriculture has always been one of the surest of callings, and so it always will be.

A LITTLE TALK ON ICE CREAM SODA

NOT BETTER THAN THE BEST
BUT BETTER THAN THE REST

To maintain the reputation we have acquired for supplying the needs of our many patrons in every department, a reputation we point to with pardonable pride, we want, now, to advise you that we have opened our soda fountain with a new line of crushed fruits and fruit juice which excel any which we have ever had, and while we may occasionally find a party who has never tried one of our delicious ICE CREAM SODAS we find a hundred who have, and do, and always will, because they want the best and appreciate a fine article. We have some new flavors this year which are going to be of universal favor on account of their delicate flavors. Hoping you will kindly favor us with an early call, so we may show you. We are respectfully,
