A tragic finish

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vancouver, Ma-permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes:
"Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold, but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at Newlin Drug Co. 50c and $1.00.

NORFOLK'S FISHING INDUSTRIES

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 18.—Although Norfolk is widely known as a local point where eight railroad lines with an aggregate of twenty thousand miles of track meet eight miles of river and coast steamers and five lines of deep-sea steamers, and its harbor is famous all over the world, comparatively little is known of the city as an important center of the fishing trade. Yet this port, today a center of international interest because of the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition to be held in 1907 on the nearby shores of Hampton Roads, keeps in commission all the year a fleet of nearly three hundred fishing boats.

Cottagers residing on the shores of Hampton Roads, near the site of the Jamestown Exposition, can go a few hundred yards out from shore and in a few moments with the most simple equipment catch a dozen varieties of edible fish.
Boys often may be seen pushing skiffs around the mud flats of the harbor at low tide, stopping here and there to pick stranded crabs off the harbor bottom, from which the water has receded. If Norfolk were to be placed in a state of siege with out notice the besieger would find it first necessary to effect the stupendous and well nigh impossible task of closing York and James rivers, Hampton Roads, Elizabeth river, the Dismal Swamp and Albemarle and Currituck Sounds to Norfolk fishermen before he could hope to starve the city into submission.

The Norfolk fishing fleet comprises almost every kind of small craft known in this country. The favorite style of fishing boat is the "bugeye." This carries two leg-o-mutton sails on raking masts and a jibsail. The "bugeye" is not long, but very wide and shallow. It is pointed at both ends and is an exceptionally good boat for work around rivers and harbors and where the water is shallow. Though small, it is a good heavy weather boat and can stand an incredible amount of pounding. Sloops and schooners of from five to one hundred tons' burden carrying from six to a dozen men are also numerous in the fishing trade. There are a few large steamers in the fishing fleet and a great number of small craft driven by gasoline engines. These have their fishing grounds in the lower Chesapeake Bay, in Hampton Roads, in Currituck and Albemarle Sounds, reached from Norfolk through the Dismal Swamp canals, and in the open sea where the finest of deep-water fish—the bluefish—lurks, ready to furnish the liveliest sport the fisherman can find.

In addition to the great fleet that makes Norfolk its permanent headquarters a goodly number of fishing boats come to this city every year from New York and Philadelphia and make Norfolk their head quarters during the summer fishing season.
During the past year the oyster boats brought oysters into Norfolk to the value of nearly four million dollars. Most of these were the famous Lynhavens oysters considered by many to be superior to the much-prized Blue Point oysters of Long Island. Next to the Lynhavens in the favor of the public are the Chincoteague oysters and Horn Harbor crustaceans. There are a half dozen other varieties not so well known. Norfolk's oyster trade is constantly growing, every year a round dozen of boats are added to the oyster fleet.

Shad fishing is an important feature in Norfolk's commerce. Last year however was an unusually bad one for shad all along the Atlantic coast, and the figures for shad show up as large as for other fish in the totals of the fishing business.
Large quantities of porgies, flounders and sheepshead are sold every day in Norfolk for local consumption. Among the highly prized game fish to be bought in Norfolk markets are the black bass, striped bass, salmon, trout, Spanish bluefish and spotted trout. These are among the finest food fish to be found anywhere and are much sought after by those who seek to maintain the table of an epicure. There are also to be found in great quantities in the waters that surround Norfolk perch, hogfish and pickerel. These are popular food fish.

Norfolk's equipment for storing fish and her transportation facilities can be equalled by no other fishing port on the Atlantic coast. A large proportion of the fish sold; Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington get heavy shipments daily. When Norfolk boats put out for the fishing grounds they carry large quantities of ice in which the fish are placed as soon as caught. The fish are thereafter kept in ice constantly until they reach the consumer. A visit to one of the great fish houses of Norfolk will well repay a visitor, in the interesting sights to be seen there.
Though Norfolk fishdealers are modest in speaking of their business a slight investigation will show any one that the city's competition is a matter to be reckoned with by the large fishing ports of the Atlantic coast.

MADE FROM NATIVE ROOTS.
SAFE AND RELIABLE.

That the roots of many native plants, growing wild in our American forests, possess remarkable properties for the cure of human maladies is well proven. Even the untutored Indian had learned the curative value of some of these and taught the early settlers their uses. The Indian never liked work so he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible that she might do the work and let him hunt.
Therefore, he dug "poposee root" for her, for that was his great remedy for the male weaknesses. Dr. Pierce uses the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription" skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective than any other medicine in curing all the various weaknesses and painful derangements peculiar to women.
Many afflicted women have been saved from the operating table and the surgeon's knife by the timely use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Tenderness over the lower pelvic region, with backache, spells of dizziness, faintness, bearing down pains or distress should not go unnoticed. A course of "Favorite Prescription" will work marvelous benefit in all such cases, and generally effect a permanent cure if persisted in for a reasonable length of time. The "Favorite Prescription" is a harmless agent, because it is prepared from native medicinal roots, without a drop of alcohol in its make up, whereas all other medicines, put up for sale through druggists for woman's peculiar ailments, contain large quantities of spirituous liquors, which are very harmful, especially to delicate women. "Favorite Prescription" contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on each bottle wrapper. It is a powerful invigorating tonic, imparting health and strength in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. For weak and sickly women, who are "worn-out," or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office, or school-room, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, and for nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will prove a priceless benefit because of its health-restoring and strengthening power.

For constipation, the true, scientific cure is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.
Mild, harmless, yet sure.
