Nearly every house in Yreka had its windows smashed by the explosion.

PREHISTORIC NEWS

S. C. Mills, a young electrical engineer who recently arrived from American Falls is the possessor of a valuable curiosity in the shape of a tooth of a mammoth (Elephas primigenius), which he found at that place July 20, where they were excavating for the American Falls power plant. The tooth weighs seven pounds, the crown measures seven inches and from the crown to root five and one-half inches. Several other remains have been found in that section, showing that these animals at one time inhabited this country. Several specimens of the prehistoric monsters were burned at the state University fire last March. A tusk was found a few days ago which measured 15 1/2 inches in circumference and was several feet long.—Eve. Capital News.

IMPRESSED TO FIGHT FIRE

People who go camping in the mountains had better stay away from the vicinity of forest fires as the ranger has automatic power within his domain and will impress men he may run across to fight the fire. This experience befell Warren Smith, who has been camping in company Rob Suettinger at the Matoles headwaters. The fire was some miles away but the ranger happened along and impressed him. Of course, he will be paid. But Warren says he didn't go out there to make money; rather to forget business matters.—Pineville Review.

OHIO DEMOCRATS ARE IN CONVENTION

(Scripps News Association)
Columbus, O., Aug. 21.—Columbus has seldom seen a larger congregation of Democrats from all parts of the State as today, the opening day of the Democratic State Convention. The hotels in the central part of the city are crowded with Democratic politicians and the headquarters of the contending faction are busy as beehives. The convention is of particular importance owing to the fact that not only a full state ticket is to be selected, but that the convention will also take decisive action in regard to the attitude of the Democratic party of Ohio in the coming presidential campaign. Aside from the temporary organization of the convention no slate has been prepared and all the fighting for the nominations will be done on the floor of the convention hall.

Judge B. F. McCann, of Dayton, has been selected for temporary chairman, Price Russell, of Wayne county, for temporary secretary; Bert Barlow, of Butler county, for sergeant at arms. The total number of delegates will be 936, thus making the total number required for a choice, 469. It is the general understanding that the Pattison faction composed of the friends of the late Governor, is still in control and will exert a dominating influence in the convention. It is believed that a powerful effort will be made in the convention to commit the Democracy of Ohio in favor of Wm. J. Bryan's candidacy for President.
