FIRST MEETING IN MORMON TABERNACLE

LARGEST TABERNACLE OUTSIDE OF SALT LAKE, AND WHERE THE CONFERENCE IS NOW BEING HELD

This morning at ten o'clock the first meeting to be held in the new Mormon tabernacle, was called to order by F. S. Bramwell, president of the Union stake. The occasion was the first session of the quarterly conference which opened at that hour and will continue until tomorrow evening.

While the church is not completed as far as seating and lighting is concerned temporary seats have been placed to accommodate the thousands of members who are expected to attend Sunday.

This morning's session opened with a reading of reports from ward bishops, and stake presidents. Before noon, however, C. W. Penrose, one of the ablest speakers of the west, was heard in one of his instructive and entertaining lectures. The meeting adjourned before lunch time to meet at two o'clock. At that hour the three hundred who are in attendance today, met again and listened to further reports of the conditions of the L. D. S. church in general.

Tomorrow is the big day. At ten o'clock the meetings of the day will open with reports and lectures. In the afternoon at two o'clock a choir of sixty voices will open the last session. After an elaborate music program Mr. Penrose will speak. This feature alone will repay one for attending, as his ability as a speaker and lecturer is well known. Over a thousand members are expected to attend tomorrow and the city will be full of strangers.

FOR RENT—Six room house furnished or unfurnished, inquire of Mrs. W. W. Berry or Al Andrews' store.

AMUSEMENT

PATHOS AND COMEDY

Theatre-goers, partial to the Elmer Walters' style drama will be favored with a visit of "A Millionaire Tramp" which will be presented at the Opera House Sept. 28.

This play has been voted a success for several years and is popular through its unique construction.

The piece contains a happy mixture of sensational melo-drama farce comedy and quaint rural life.

The public from time to time has been imposed on by various so called "tramp" plays, but the only original and reputable drama of this character is Elmer Walters' "A Millionaire Tramp" which comes to the Opera House Sept. 28.

While others have taken his cue and tried to follow his example, he still has maintained his high standard of excellence with this high attraction and the commendable press notices and public approval warrant the assertion that "A Millionaire Tramp" is the best drama portraying the American vagabond.

Elmer Walters' latest temperance play "A Millionaire Tramp" contains seven of the strongest comedy characters that ever have been collected in one play.

Each one differs vastly from the other and lends opportunity for variety and action. The ghost scene in the first act and the darkey porter's scene in the third act are two of the funniest imaginable. The dramatic scenes are fully abreast of the comedy and the scenic of mounting superb. The Church of the Holy Cross in the second act is one of the handsomest of its kind. The Country Opera House in the third act is a decided novelty—something entirely new and out of the ordinary, while the old hotel in the last act is the embodiment of quaintness.

"A play which deserves to be well received upon its presentation at the Opera House is "A Millionaire Tramp" The company is said to be giving a general good show.

Mrs. J. H. Stevens of La Grande came over last night to be the guest of her sister Mrs. Frank Fraizer until after the county fair.—Pendleton E. O.

It is the generally agreed sentiment among the papers of the world. Here is what a few of them say of the Scotch concert company which is booked for this city Oct. 1 able sort. In scenery and in the absorbing story it tells. "On the Bridge at Midnight" is unexcelled and has been accepted as standard. The many unusual characters, the excellence of the bridge scene, one of the most impressive reproductions from real life ever taken out of the heart of a great city, combine to place "On the Bridge at Midnight" in the first class of dramas for the people.
