AMUSEMENT

MONDAY NIGHT

"The Royal Chef," a musical comedy which has been having a successful run in Chicago and New York, is billed for Steward's opera house, Monday, Oct. 8. The management of the company has expended a small fortune on the scenic effects and costumes and it is said to be one of the most elaborate productions of the season. There is not too much plot to "The Royal Chef," but it gives a chance for a lot of handsome young women to wear stunning gowns and for the corps of clever comedians to introduce novel specialties. Among the catchy airs which will be sung for the first time in La Grande are "The Tail of the Tailless Frog," which bids fair to be the hit of the season, "Spin Again," "O Riely," "What Color Eyes Do You Love Best," "Strolling," and "Let Me Go Back." A feature of the production is the chorus, which in addition to being a beautiful one, includes all of the "Original Broilers."

TUESDAY NIGHT

Jane Corcoran is well known throughout this territory for her ability as an actress, having visited us upon more than one occasion and giving entire satisfaction each time. Her impersonation last season as Peg Woodington in Pretty Peggy will live in the memories of all who witnessed the performance last year. This year she brings to us a more modern play, that found success at the Empire Theatre New York City, where it had an extended run for many weeks. Miss Corcoran's manager, Arthur C. Aiston, having the confidence that he will find support from the theatre-going public if he will offer them something out of the ordinary, believes that the return will well repay him for the outlay, and consequently they have gotten together a star company and production of unusual merit. This should alone guarantee a big house. Miss Corcoran's chief support will be the well known leading man, James M. Brophy. Steward's opera house, Tuesday, Oct. 9.

Northwest News

City Recorder Thomlinson of North Powder reports that that city does not owe a dollar and has over $500 in the treasury.

Charles Anderson, a well known mining man of Montana, suicided at Gardner, in that state, by going into an abandoned prospect hole and taking poison.

Everett Fisher, aged 15, of Eugene, was killed in the gravel pit near that place. An engine tender ran over him, crushing both legs and his side. He died immediately after his legs had been amputated.

While out hunting a few miles south of Portland, Willie Hines accidentally shot himself in the leg with a 22 calibre rifle. It is probable that he will lose the limb, as the knee and the tibia were shattered.

As a result of the strike of 2000 miners employed at the Crow Nest Pass coal company and the Fernie, Michel and Coal Creek collieries, in East Kootenay, a coal famine threatens the cities of the Canadian northwest.

The first Oregon victim of football for this season is Howard H. Fearay, at Portland. Six men piled on top of him on the Multnamah field. He was horribly bruised and trampled and when picked up was bleeding at the mouth. His worst injuries are internal, and his recovery is doubtful.
