AMUSEMENT

A fair sized house greeted Miss Jane Corcoran and Mr. Brophy and patiently waited for them to finish the three acts of "The Freedom of Suzanne." There is no question but that both Miss Corcoran and Mr. Brophy are actors far above the average, but the piece is too trivial for serious consideration at the hands of two so accomplished and intelligent artists. It is true that there are passages in the play which are truly amusing and others which require real ability, but the conception of the piece is not in accordance to human nature or even ordinary common sense.

A MAD LOVE

Manager Edward R. Salter has found a new emotional actress, Miss Mareta Smart, who gives promise of becoming one of the foremost of leading women. She will appear here in "A Mad Love" a modern re-adaptation of Miss M. E. Bradton's famous work which both as a novel and play bore the title of "Lady Audley's Secret," and for a score of years has been played and read throughout the world, having been translated into every known language and is recorded in literary history as one of the genuine and permanent successes, and will be presented at Steward's opera house, Monday, Oct. 15. This modern version is claimed to be an improvement on the original inasmuch as it has been brought up to meet the theatrical demands of the times. Beyond the revision and with several added characters, the brilliancy and interest of the original remains intact.

NOVEMBER ELECTIONS

The following states hold their elections in November: Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Wisconsin, Wyoming.

COME ON TIME

As the theatrical season has just opened here it would be well to call the attention of the patrons of the opera house to the fact that they can confer a great favor upon the management also the patrons by arriving at the theatre in time to become seated before the curtain goes up for the first act. Stragglers not only lose the benefit of seeing the first of the bill, but also prevent those who did come in time from receiving the benefits of their promptness. No one has the right to disturb others. Come on time or wait for the beginning of the next act.

HOW TO CURE DYSPEPSIA

To form an idea how osteopathic treatment may give one a better digestion without having prescribed any artificial pepsin, it is only necessary to get some conception of how the normal stomach digests food without medical aid in the first place. What performs the work of digestion? Glands which secrete digestants and muscles which churn the food around and move it onward? Yes, if you consider the immediate agency, but what is back of these muscle and gland cells to keep them going and properly regulated? Nervous energy and the blood supply. Here is the great source of physiological energy. These agencies feed and regulate all processes of life. They are likewise the Osteopath's only "medicine." Osteopathic treatment consists, not in trying to supply more nerve force and blood than a patient possesses, but in utilizing what he has properly. This treatment is finding out what obstruction in the body have prevented the normal nerve energy and blood sustenance from reaching the organs of digestion and then removing such obstructions, allowing Nature to do her proper work. That's all. No wonder, then, that Osteopathy cures dyspepsia.—Osteopathic Health.
