Washington, Oct. 10—Fully four thousand bankers are here from all sections of the United States today attending the annual meeting of the American Banker's Association in the View Willard Hotel. Important business was transacted by special invitation of Secretary Shaw of the Treasury the visiting bankers had unlimited opportunities of viewing the workings of the Treasury Dept. MEETING OF FAMOUS ORGANIZATION

(Scripps News Association)
Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 10—The thirty seventh annual reunion of the survivors of the First Connecticut Heavy Artillery was held in the Atlantic Hotel here today. The original colors of this famous regiment were presented to it in front of the old state house on its departure for the seat of war on Monday June 10, 1861. One of the colors was given by women interested in the Putnam Phalanx of Hartford and the other by the state ex-Lieut. Governor Douglas, Col. Woodhouse pledging his honor that the flag should never be disgraced. Subsequently the Fourth received its colors from the Governor. It reached the command at Hagerstown A. D. and was borne in Hartford Sept. 17, 1879. It was carried in the parade but it was so tattered from service that it could not be unfurled.

FOUNDATION COMPLETED

The foundation of the new Baptist church is now completed and gives one an idea of what the building is to be. Rev. Gibson says that the laying of brick is now on the program and will commence immediately. The structure certainly will be a credit to the city. A glimpse at the blue prints will convince the most critical that the structure will be modern in every respect.

ERECTING THE WALLS

Beginning last Monday the brick wall of the new round house began to loom up and today the wall has reached a height of four feet for a distance of nine stalls. Nine bricklayers are working like Trojans and it is predicted that by Saturday evening the wall will be complete on the west end and in the rear for a distance of nine stalls. This morning the wall had reached a height even with the bottom of the windows and consequently the window frames are now being cased in with brick. On the west end there are three triple windows, and in the rear wall there are two large double windows for every stall. These, combined with the large cupola that will adorn the roof, will insure an abundance of light in the round house. With the continuance of good weather, nine more stalls will be bricked up a week hence.

Intersecting the middle of the large structure, and rising from the ground through the roof will be a thick cement fire wall. This is to reduce the chances of fire. In case the roof of the round house should ever be ignited, it would be impossible for more to be consumed than the half in which it started.

The city water mains lie directly under the district on which the turn table is to be located, and to relieve this difficulty, the O. R. & N. will divert the course of the main by inserting additional pipes. Excavations are now being made for these pipes and when they are in place, the water will be led in a circular direction about the section to be taken up by the turn table. The pipes are enroute to La Grande and it will be but a matter of a few days until the original water mains' course will be changed so as to circle the turn table pit.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION ITEMS

(Observer Special)
The management of the Jamestown Exposition promises that evolution by dirigible balloons and air ships will be among the every day sights of the great celebration. Since the big show at St. Louis, vast improvements have been made in the air-craft and the best on earth will be shown at Jamestown.

The steam power developed by the stupendous fleet of war vessels to be assembled in Hampton Roads at the Jamestown Exposition will far exceed that of any Manufacturing city in the world.

The war fleet in Hampton Roads at the Jamestown Exposition will develop more electric lighting power than that of any city in the world of one million population or less.

During the Jamestown Exposition there will always be at least one hundred vessels of war at anchor or in evolution in Hampton Roads, within sight of the grounds in addition to the marines fleet of more than two hundred craft. The night illumination of this immense fleet will be one of the great world spectacles.

There are in Hampton Roads more than one hundred and sixty square miles of sheltered anchorage. It requires one quarter of one hundred square miles for safe anchorage for a war ship and it will thus be seen that when the great war fleets of the world come to the Jamestown Exposition there will be room for all of them.

LARGEST SHIP YET

The Gunrad steamship Co has just launched the biggest ship yet, it is the Mauritania. The new queen of "greyhounds" is of the turbine type. It is 290 feet long 88 feet wide has a displacement of 45,000 tons and a speed of 15 knots an hour. The same day there was launched from British shipyards the largest armoured cruiser in the world and the second largest ship in the world. The former is the Mhannor for the British navy and the latter the White Star liner Adriatic. The Adriatic is 710 feet long.

Change in Management

The eastern stockholders of the Central Railroad of Oregon became dissatisfied with the management of President Alonzo Cleaver and asked for his resignation and Mr. Robert Marr is now filling that position. Mr. Cleaver still retains his position as one of the directors. As far as the general policy of the road is concerned there will be no change.

The company yesterday received a telegram stating that eleven cars of rails had just been shipped and would arrive in due time.

There seems to be a conflict of authority as to the power of demanding Mr. Cleaver's resignation and Mr. Cleaver doubts their ability to permanently remove him.

Mr. Cleaver was the original promoter in securing this project although he had many loyal workers with him, and while the general public has no interest in the detail management of the company, many of Mr. Cleaver's warm personal friends in this county recognize that he has been no small factor in the development of the county.

Mr. Marr, the new president, during his two years connection with the road, has identified himself with the business interests of the county in such a manner as to enjoy the confidence of all and in case a change is considered necessary would be pleased to have him continue as president and general manager.
