HOW TO KNOW AN ANTHEM

People who know little about a subject sometimes explain it more clearly than those who know all about it. An old sailor had heard in church an anthem which greatly pleased him. He was telling a shipmate, who asked: "I say, Jack, what's an anthem?"

"What," replied Jack, "do you mean to say you don't know what a hantham is?"

"Not me."

"Well then, I'll tell yer. If I was to say to yer, 'Ere, Bill, give me that 'hand-spike,' that wouldn't be a hantham. But was I to say, 'Bill-Bill-Bill-giv-giv-giv-giv-me, give me that-Bill, give me, that hand, give me that hand, handspike, spike-spike-Bill give me that that handspike, hand-spike-spike-spike, ah man! Bill give me that handspike-spike, ah men!' that would be a hantham."

THE REASON

Why is an unmarried woman called a "spinster?"

Because women were prohibited from marrying in olden days until they had spun a full set of bed furnishings and thus until their marriage they spent much time at the spinning-wheel and were, therefore "spinsters."

Why are we unable to see when we turn from bright light to a darker object?

Because when we look at a bright light the iris, or colored protecting curtain contracts around the pupil (which is only a window), thus keeping to much light from striking the retina or sensitive part of the eye. As soon as the eye is turned to a darker object, the pupil is so small that it does not admit a sufficient number of rays to enable us to see. We must wait a few seconds for it to expand.

Why do clergymen habitually wear black?

Because when Martin Luther in 1524 laid aside the habit of a monk and adopted the style of dress prevailing at the time the Elector of Saxony used to send to him from time to time pieces of black cloth, that color then being fashionable at the court. Luther's disciples thought because he wore black, it became them to do so, and thus it came about that the clergy generally grew to regard it as the only proper color for them to wear.
