AMUSEMENT

HI HENRY EXPLAINS

Says Hi Henry "Now and then some person champions the old style minstrelsy but the masses would not stand a moment for it. They will not tolerate the one man star system, but demand a good all around collection of new modern performers. The fright wig, the stuffed club, the handful of flour, the dummy, the public recalcitrant to the rear; the old regulation vocal quartette must give way to the full chorus, necessitating four times the original number of singers and the old pawnbroker's spike-tail coat must be replaced by the finest, most elaborate brocades. But a few years ago, comparatively, a well known comedian in presenting his monologue called attention to the elegant satin dress suit used for the occasion, the bill reading that the "costume worn would be the finest ever used by any minstrel star." Mr. Henry presents eight comedians all of whom wear satin brocade costumes, each of which is double the value of the one so prominently starred. What would organize and start an old time minstrel show would not pay the summer repairs on Mr. Henry's cars alone. The Hi Henry Big Modern Show will appear at Steward's Opera House on Saturday Oct. 20, and the public can turn their strongest eye glasses on the elegant costumes of Mr. Henry's comedians and on the entire assembly, as well as on the gorgeous scenery and electric effects finer by far than many produced in the grand opera.

It was in the year of 1857 that the immortal Richard Wagner first conceived his idea relating to the grand possibilities contained in the legend of the "Holy Grail" for a wonderful spectacle and drama. It was not until twenty-five years later, namely 1882, that his idea was carried out to his satisfaction and the world was given the glorious work of "Parsifal." It is said that his first intention was to present "Parsifal" simply as a dramatic production, but was induced later to change his mind and produce it in combination music form. By his doing so, the world gained two grand productions instead of one. It will forever remain as the grandest of all music compositions. It will as surely stand for all time as the grandest drama ever written. It requires a trained mind, a cultivated musician, to enjoy the music of Wagner. One must thoroughly understand a thing to equally enjoy it.

A SPECIFIC CURE FOR FLUX

If every person in the world could see or experience one severe case of flux treated and cured by Osteopathy in the prompt and satisfactory way that it seems generally able to handle these cases, all the world would promptly become converts to Osteopathy. Seeing is believing. Feeling prompt release from gripping pains and experiencing a stoppage of the bloody discharge from bowels, which if unchecked leads on to death, is the sort of evidence that sweeps away skepticism. Any family may have this gratifying experience who will call in a competent Osteopath when flux or "bloody flux," as many call it, strikes down some member of the household.

"Disentery" and "colitis" are the medical terms for flux. It is an inflammation of the lower bowel. Usually there is ulceration. It is one of the world's four great epidemic diseases and costs more lives annually than cholera. It is common in summer and autumn in all malarial climates and acute attacks often run into chronic cases. Drugs to stop the unwanted secretion and activity of the lower bowel in flux are so far from effectual that the frequent hanging on of bloody disentery and death resulting from it are well understood by everybody.

Osteopathy makes a new diagnosis in flux. The muscles of splanchnic area are "corded," tense, sore, and not to the touch. Alternate areas of cold and hot are to be recognized by the touch along the spine and over the abdomen. Clearly there is mischief in those abnormal spinal muscles. Well, how could you expect a grounded telephone wire to work, anyhow? No more will the nerves that feed vitality to the bowels work when they are likewise impinged upon, or "grounded," which is the case when these congested muscles hold them in a vise-like grip.

STARVING TO DEATH

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed."
