TO TRY WAR BALLOONS

(Scripps News Association)
Washington, Oct. 24—The government has decided to experiment with war balloons at Fort Omaha. A plant for generating hydrogen will be built at that place.

There is nothing that takes away the beautiful, womanly charms like a plodding stooped, awkward carriage. There is absolutely no excuse for that as long as Hollister's Rocky Mountain is made, Tea or Tablets, 35 cents. NEWLIN DRUG COMPANY.

THE NEW BISHOP IS THOROUGHLY QUALIFIED

Arthur A. Greene, of Portland, writes as follows of Bishop Charles Scadding, the new Episcopal bishop of Oregon:

My first impression of Charles Scadding who has come out here to be bishop of Oregon for the Protestant Episcopal church, was that of extraordinary physical power. After 15 minutes' conversation I was convinced that his mind is as big and virile as his body and that in him are blended those elements which have made men leaders from the time of Moses down to Roosevelt. The new bishop stands head and shoulders above the commonality, speaking both literally and figuratively. He's a fine pattern of champion in the lists in the church militant.

He has a big combative head set firmly upon a body which suggests gladiators and knights in armor. His presence is dignified without being austere; his cordial smile and hearty handshake attest to that. He radiates good fellowship in its best sense and makes one feel that here is the big brother of his people, whose capacities fit him to carry burdens and administer heavy duties.

Complete master of himself, knowing humanity in all its phases, sympathetic but positive, capable and sure, Bishop Scadding seems the man among 10,000 to take up the hard, trying work of this great diocese with its infinite tasks and possibilities. Surely the choice has been well made. The mantle of B. Wistar Morris, grand old pioneer of a holy cause, has fallen upon worthy shoulders.

The bishop is a young man to have reached such power and influence. He is 45, but, if the truth must be told, he looks perhaps five years older. The gray in his hair and beard do the mischief for he is otherwise in the full prime of his manhood.

He is certain to accomplish great things for his church, being admirably adapted for missionary work, of which there is a great need, for there are vast wildernesses to be penetrated here in Oregon. Struggling frontier communities must be ministered to, though the mountains be hard to surmount and the deserts a sore trial to cross. In every respect a fortunate choice it seems, for Bishop Scadding is equally at home with his people in a log cabin or a cathedral. He's been through all degrees.
