SCENE FROM PARSIFAL

TONIGHT
In reading and studying the vast amount of matter that has been written upon the subject of "Parsifal," one cannot but observe how often the word "fool" appears, as applied to the hero directly, as well as to other characters that may be considered from the same point of view. Perhaps the earliest story of the entire group of the Holy Grail legends is an Old Celtic narrative styled "The Song Of The Great Fool." In this old writing we are told how, when one brother killed another, he afterwards slew a wild beast and dressed himself in its skin. He then caught a wild horse and rode away to the castle of his wicked uncle. When asked his name he simply answered "Great Fool." He proved himself far from being a fool, for we are told that he avenged the death of his mother and another brother whom the uncle had killed. The "great fool" of this ancient poem is the original "guileless fool" in quest of the Holy Grail. We see in Wagner's famous drama that Parsifal is alluded to by Kundry as a "fool," and later as the "stainless fool." But the modern significance of the word "fool" is far from being applicable to "Parsifal" and not intended in that sense of the word. It would be more correct in its intended meaning to use the expression "guileless innocent." Parsifal was reared in perfect innocence. It was evidently the intention of the author to illustrate that "innocence" was the most acceptable in the sight of God. "It was the Lamb of God who took away the sins of the world. It is the child that is most readily taken into the Kingdom of God." In this quotation we see the names "lamb" and "child" as embodying all that is meant by "innocence"

THE SONG OF THE MOON Sung by Miss Mabel Day and Dorothy IN STEWART OPERA CO

TO MORROW NIGHT

The magnificent and extensiveness of the productions of the Stewart opera company, which comes to the Stewart Opera house tomorrow night and Saturday night, can fairly well be estimated by the fact that it requires three large baggage cars to accommodate the massive scenic, and elaborate costume equipment used in the presentation of "The Two Roses" which will be given on Friday night, and "Dorothy" will be presented on Saturday night. These productions are identically the same as were used during the presentation of these operas at the Broadway theatre, New York City, and which will be seen in all their entirety during the engagement here.

LA GRANDE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

PROF. DAY, PRINCIPAL.
MRS. DAY, ASSISTANT.

This is one of the best musical institutions in the state, and that people in this city and valley are beginning to discover the advantage of this school. The system is the latest and most practical, and includes all the latest discoveries in the art of teaching music. The school is divided into two departments; No. 1 is for beginners from 5 years or more and are taught the first three grades. Pupils come one hour each day. This is no kindergarten system but far superior. In No. 2 the grades are from 5 to 15. Here they graduate. Pupils take one or two lessons a week as they desire. No scholars will be permitted to remain in this school who do not study. Opposite the Foley House over the candy store. Phone. 475.
