FROM ENTERTAINMENT TO LIBRARY

La Grande is on the verge of having a library to which the public may have access to borrow and return books, once a week. Four years, now, Prof. Hocken-berry has labored industriously to accumulate a collection of the best books, and well has he succeeded, too. But the present supply will not warrant the opening of a library, and due to this fact, the school management is trying hard to make the entertainment to be given this week, a success. If the proposed entertainment is a success, enough additional books can be purchased to warrant the proposed library opening. Fifty per cent of the net funds received through this source will be used by Prof. Hockenberry to supply the lacking quantity of books.
Hence it behooves La Grande to attend these two entertainments. The primary reason, is not to donate generously to the stranger within our gates who is coaching the production, but that fifty per cent of the door receipts can go to buy the final set of books with which to complete the library. The professor has volunteered to be at the school one evening in a week to act as librarian so that all who wish can have good reading facilities at their command. He is willing to continue the work commenced over four years ago by doing this additional work gratis and without compensation. If citizens of La Grande thoroughly realize that an exhaustive library stands ready to be made use of by simply attending this entertainment, the house during both productions will without a doubt, be filled to the limit.

San Francisco is planning to hold a great world's fair in 1912. The Pacific Coast states are just beginning to realize that important events happened on the Pacific Coast one hundred years ago worthy of celebrating. Oregon led the way with the Lewis and Clark in 1805, Washington comes next with a big fair at Seattle in 1909; British Columbia follows with a fair at Vancouver in 1910; then comes California in 1912. Can't Idaho and Montana dig up a good cause for celebrating?

The public fountain should receive some attention. The faucets which enable people to quench their thirst, are plugged up and therefore those who would partake of the sparkling waters of the beautiful Grande Ronde are forced to find some other opening in the city main or continue on their way distributing cotton along the busy thoroughfare. While the city has the repairs of the fountain under way, it might be a good plan to remove that relic of the dark ages which for a time served the purpose of a street light. Now that the arc light is in place there is no longer any necessity for this old style lantern.

HELP THE PUBLIC LIBRARY ALONG

Take advantage of the opportunity offered to secure the benefit of the public school library. There are hundreds of books at your disposal, but it is not natural that we should receive anything for nothing. Put your shoulder to the wheel and render some assistance. The effort will not cost much, but the benefits will be far reaching and permanent.

The postal department of Berlin has just given an order for 200 automobiles, to be used in its service within the suburbs of that city in place of horses. Consul-General Richard Guenther, of Frankfurt, further notes that in Germany and many other European countries the postal service includes the transportation and delivery of parcels and small freight which in America is carried on by express companies. Hence the larger number of mail vehicles required by the postal departments in Europe.
