BEACH & BOWERS' MINSTRELS

A large audience greeted the old time favorites, Beach & Bowers' minstrels at the Hefferlin last night. Minstrel shows seem to have found what Ponce de Leon failed to find—the spring of eternal youth. Livingston people seem to take as much pleasure in the old time minstrel humorist the musical novelties, the contortionists, etc., as their grandfathers took years ago.

The Beach & Bowers show has a splendid band and some especially clever soloists. The musical part of the show in well up to standard. John Higgins is an especially funny end man. Roswell J. Wright is surely phenomenal as a male soprano. Harry Perrill basso has the greatest range of voice ever shown in Livingston. He is a basso, a baritone and a tenor, all in one. All in the show was as good a one as is now traveling in minstrelsy and is deserving of a good patronage.—Livingston (Montana) Post At Stewart's Opera house Nov. 2.

This is the fourth season of uninterrupted success of that powerful play "The Convict's Daughter," which will appear at Stewart's opera house Monday October 5.

Success always leads to competition, and competition always benefits the public. Several seasons ago lovers of saw and went away delighted. They had seen a very meritorious performance, and a grand dramatic story cleverly written by an American author, and acted by a capable company.

The beautiful story of "The Convict's Daughter" went straight to the heart and forced itself upon their memory such as no other play had ever done. The opening act, Col. Gould's home, has such an atmosphere of love and sunshine in it that it crept over the footlights and nestled among the audience. In fact, the scene was so pretty and realistic they did not see the approaching clouds that were slowly but surely shutting out the pretty picture.

There is only one way to appreciate this beautiful and startling melodrama—come and see it. It is especially written for the family and presents the drama true to life in a great many households.

melodrama had a chance to judge of the merits of "The Convict's Daughter." It was something they had been waiting for and eagerly sought. The theatres were not large enough to hold them, and its great drawing powers heralded its reputation everywhere. The public came,
