HEADACHE
Headache is most often the result of too much or too little blood in the head. Contraction of tissues about the neck and shoulders, causing compression of blood vessels and crowding of the nerves, is the cause of acute attacks: while the chronic variety is more often caused by misadjustment of one or more of the vertebrae at the head of the spine, affecting nerves which control the blood circulation.

Some headaches are due, too, to direct nerve pressure, being more of a neuralgic nature; while still others are reflexes of some other illness, such as stomach disorder. The Osteopath can locate the cause of the ordinary acute attack quickly and his manipulative work puts an end to it at once. The chronic trouble requires longer treatment but cure may nevertheless be counted upon in a short time. In headaches resulting from other illness relief may usually be had quickly, altho permanent cure is naturally dependent upon the cure of the primary trouble, to which Osteopathy in such cases devotes his chief attention.

NOTICE FOR BIDS

ECZEMA SKIN RAW AND FEVERISH-ITCHING INTENSE

Eczeema is a tormenting, stubborn disease caused by an acid humor in the blood coming in contact with the skin and producing redness, inflammation and almost intolerable itching. An inactive state of the system and sluggish condition of the eliminative members leaves the waste and refuse matter of the body to collect and sour instead of passing them off through nature's channels of bodily waste. The blood in its efforts to purge the system of all foreign matter absorbs this acid and throws it off through the pores and glands of the skin. The acid humor seems to ooze out and set the skin on fire, the straw colored, sticky fluid drying and forming crusts, and the itching is in ease. When these pustules are scratched off the skin is left raw and feverish and often a solid sore is formed and kept up by the constant escape of acids from the blood. Local applications of salves, powders, lotions etc, are desirable and should be used because they allay the itching and give the sufferer temporary comfort, but are in no sense curative, because they cannot reach the seat of the trouble, which is in the blood.

S. S. S. goes down into the blood, cleanses the circulation of all acids and humors, builds up the thin, sour blood and by removing every vestige of the cause cures Eczeema permanently. The irritating eruptions disappear, the itching and burning cease, and the acid-fried skin, being fed by a fresh, cooling stream of blood, becomes soft and smooth again. S. S. S. is made of healing, purifying roots, herbs and barks that will not damage any part of the system. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free.
