White who is in charge of the recently established recruiting station in Cleveland reports that he has not secured as many men during the past month as he had hoped. Commander White attributes the falling off in naval and military recruiting to the better conditions of labor.

BEAUTIFUL BOSTON TERRIOR

ELMORE'S "STRONG HEART"

George J. Elmore, manager of the "Convict's daughter" troupe which appears in the Steward's Opera House tonight, is in the city today.

He is accompanied by "Strongheart" a Boston terrier that has medals galore as is exhibited in the accompanying cut. "Strongheart" made his initial appearance at the interstate fair where he captured the gold medal for his class. Since then he has never ceased to win medals wherever he has been placed on exhibition.

It is a most impressive little dog. In addition to a cobby body, faultless conformation, a screw tail, beautiful eyes short and wide muzzle, his front is very fine. His head is a study, has character and shows it in every movement.

Besides being a prize winner he is an actor of no mean ability.

He appears on the stage as "Danger" in the play tonight.

Mr. Elmore called at the OBSERVER office this morning with "Strongheart" at his heels. While here the dog made the acquaintance of the force. He certainly is a beauty.

WATER IS SCARCE

Because of the very long dry spell in eastern Oregon and the heavy traffic on the O. R. & N., the railroad tank at Kamela is now dry and that mountain village is threatened with a water famine.

Almost the entire town is supplied from the railroad tank and this tank is supplied from a well on the summit of the mountain. Owing to the fact that there has been but little rain this fall the well is almost dry and orders have been issued to all trainmen to not take water there in passing over the mountain.

The O. R. & N. company is making an effort to purchase a tract of land at Kamela belonging to Mrs. E. Swauger, and if the purchase is made a deep well will be sunk there and an adequate water supply secured.

LIVER COMPLAINT

In most varieties of liver trouble the Osteopath accomplishes much for the patient. Indeed he frequently finds "lesions" (structural misadjustments) affecting the liver when it has not been suspected that the organ was at fault at all. Finding the "lesion," or cause, is surely a chief part in the cure of any disease. Re-adjustment follows and the liver, again receiving uninterrupted, its normal blood circulation and normal quota of nerve impulses, does better at once. Results are hastened, too, by direct mechanical stimulation over the liver. While Osteopathy does not claim by any means to cure all cases of liver trouble, it does cure a great many and may certainly be said to be the most rational, safest, and surest treatment which the sufferer can adopt.
