THE GROESBACK WILL AGAIN

The supreme court which meets in Pendleton today is considering an appeal from the circuit court of this county. Last Spring Judge Eakine heard the contest of the will of the late Mr. Groesback. The will as left by the deceased gave a title of his property to John W. Groesback, his son, because the latter had cared for the aged man. Nicholas O. Groesback, Mary E. Packer and her husband I. C. Packer, Jacob Groesback and Chas. D. Groesback, contested the will alleging that the deceased was demented at the time of writing the will. The case in the lower court was decided in favor of the plaintiffs. John W. Groesback the defendant, has now appealed the case to the Supreme court and that body is considering the appeal today. Crawford and Crawford are attorneys for the appellant and J. W. Knowles of this city and Mr. Barber of Boise Idaho are attorneys for the respondents.

INDUSTRIAL EDITION DID IT

About three weeks ago, this office mailed a copy of the industrial edition to H. C. Rogers of Menomonee, Wisconsin. He read it carefully and considered with his wife the advisability of coming west. La Grande and its surroundings as pictured in the special edition sent him, suited him, and today he is cozily located in one of the Zuber buildings on Washington avenue of this city. He and Mrs. Rogers arrived yesterday morning and by this morning Mr. Rogers had been tendered a position as carpenter on the new round house at $5 per day. He says that at least four families from his city will be located in La Grande before the winter is over.
