The yearly crop in Santos and the Parana river up to the present yielded about 13,000,000 bags but this season 3,000,000 bags cannot be placed on the market while the coffee is of inferior quality.

London, Nov. 7.—Owing to the failure of the coffee crop in Brazil arrangements are made for shipments from Patavia, Java where an excellent crop is reported.

C. N. LEWIS INJURED

C. N. Lewis, postmaster at Hilgard, yesterday met with an accident whereby he is likely to lose the forefinger of his left hand. Mr. Lewis was chopping wood using the ax with his right and holding the block with his left. The ax handle during its descent, met an obstruction, diverting its downward course. The sharp blade all but severed the finger at the middle joint. Doctor Hall was called to Hilgard, and sewed the finger together with the little fragment of skin still holding. It is possible the finger will yet have to be amputated.

PNEUMONIA WEATHER

As winter approaches and the days are wet and chilly, pneumonia is very liable to show itself more frequently than in pleasant weather. During the last two weeks the science of osteopathy has demonstrated that pneumonia can be successfully forestalled and cured by resorting to osteopathic treatments. Dr. Moore, the osteopath, has successfully treated two infants afflicted with serious attacks of pneumonia.
