SOCIETY

Last Tuesday evening at the Mayor J. B. Stoddard home, Mesdames J. B. Stoddard and E. E. Romig and Miss Carmin Stoddard entertained a large number of friends at a hallowe'en card party. The event was postponed several days, but when it did occur it demonstrated much originality and uniqueness on the part of the hostesses. As the guests were ushered into the elegant home, they were received by representations of spooks, and combined with the uncanny light emitted by a few jack o' lanterns the guests were soon tuned in harmony with the hallowe'en scheme of the party. Pumpkins, apples and autumn leaves were tastily entangled with red and yellow to form the decorations. When all the guests had arrived, the lights were turned on and five hundred was played. Prizes for ability at cards were won by Mr. Rush and Mrs. Hall and consisted of water color drawings. E. W. Bartlett was awarded the consolation prize in the shape of a huge pumpkin. At the close of card games, light was again conspicuous for its absence, and with the guests settled down to contest for the prize for the best ghost story. The contest was especially entertaining. Chester Newlin was the successful one and carried away a juicy pumpkin pie. Hallowe'en pranks were occasionally indulged, too.

Light refreshments were served which included pumpkin pie which in turn contained a bachelor's button in one piece and a thimble of spinsterhood in another. Miss Margetta Anson secured the "Lucky thimble piece and Chester Newlin the piece containing the button. Between laughs, the guests found time to enjoy the various delicacies included in the menu. Exactly at midnight a gong notified the guests of the end of an evening's enjoyment. Before the echo had died away the Queen of Spooks appeared and informed these present to drink to her health and disperse until the eve before All Saint's day next year. Goblets of apple cider were heartily consumed to the toast.

The invitation list was as follows:
Messrs. and Mesdames Hall, Berry, Parr, Logan, Damon, Richardson, A. L. Richardson, A. Newlin, Robert Newlin, Jones, Moore, Swaney, Watts, McCully, Leon Stoddard, Will Stoddard, L. Dunn, Paul, Andrews, Lily, Bartlett, Alinson, Burk, Kiddle, Scroggins, Van Buren, Molitor, Oliver, Grady, C. Dunn, Meyers, Clark of Cove, Lleshman, Palmer, Byrkit, Bacon, Crawford; Mesdames French, Aikine, Finn, and A. B. Brown of Union. Misses Mayme Reith, Evalyn Rohan, McDonald, Margaret Anson, Paul, Kuhn, Proebstel, Ellen Grady, Moina Aikine, Allie Stevens, Dooby, Burk Lulu Gulling, Messrs. French, Belnap, C. Newlin, Rush, and Moore of Union.

Mrs. J. H. Childs and Miss Dorothy Zuber entertained last Friday afternoon in honor of their mother, Mrs. S. C. Zuber. It was an informal old time friends party. The afternoon was spent in delightful reminiscence of Old La Grande, where most of the guests were neighbors twenty-five years ago. At half past four a dainty two course luncheon of sandwiches a la Creole, Waldorf salad, marshmello cherry moussee cake and cafe au lait was served.

Those present were: Mesdames Carrie Wellman, Nettie S. Kelley, Robt. Deal, Berj. Grandy, David Bay, J. E. Foley, J. Roesche, John Bay, Anna Murchison, C. H. Finn, F. Newlin, Noyes, A. E. Jones, Jos. Palmer, Kate R. Hanley, V. R. Reeves, N. Ackles, A. C. Williams, G. Gourley, Mrs. Hillbord, Miss Elsie Ackles and Master Bay.

Eating wieners and cake furnished the refreshments and entertainment for a little impromptu party given by Miss Dorothy Zuber to seven of her friends last Wednesday evening. Those present were: Messrs. Clarence Whiteman, Jess Paul, Harvey Bay, Ben Noyes, Misses Elsie Ackles, Lulu Gulling, Mae Noyes and the hostess, Miss Zuber.
