If you will take the time to think the matter over you will find that there are many things you have reason to be especially thankful.

We have reason to be thankful for the fact that we have not, so far, frozen up that we can still talk about the fuel famine. While there is life there is hope, or at least there should be.

Do not forget to be thankful for the knowledge that your neighbor has wood and coal even if your own supply has reached that state where it is but a memory of better days.

Every citizen in Union county should be thankful because prosperity has struck this county to the tune of county debt reduction at the rate of twenty thousand dollars annually.

Forget that hard luck story for tomorrow at least, and think of something for which you have reason to be thankful. Unless you are sored clear to the core you have something which could be properly be remembered on thanksgiving.

Here is a tangle: An old man of 50 and a young man of 28, both widowers. The young man has a step-daughter 38 years old, that he marries to the older gentleman, and in return took the old man's daughter for a wife. Now what relation are those four people to each other? Ex.

SHADOWED HOMES

Never dawns a bright anniversary that has not its shadowed side. Never is there a home to which sooner or later grief does not come. At the Thanksgiving board this year, as in other years, there will be vacant chairs, and the household of the sorrowing continually is recruited by those to whom has come the pang of loss. It is not easy to understand why trials so often come to those who need no harsh discipline, and from our limited experience we cannot tell why it is that one is taken and another left. One thing we may do, and that is trust. We may safely trust a love that is greater than ours, and may safely leave our vanished dear ones in the care of Him who gave them to us.

ALASKA WANTS HOME RULE

The people of Alaska are about to take steps to secure a territorial form of government. It is not intended to demand local self government for all township and country organizations, as is done in older settled communities but simply to be empowered, as American citizens, to legislate for themselves. In their efforts for this local self government, the people of Alaska are expecting the aid of the state of Washington particularly of Seattle, the gateway of Alaska, which the trade of the north has done so much to build up. Mr. Thomas Gale, of Fairbanks, Alaska, mine owner, chosen by the people of Northern Alaska to represent them in Congress is the prime mover in the affair. Mr. Gale points out that the mining laws of Alaska are patterned after those of the United States but are a mere skeleton not fitted for local needs. On the skeleton provided, the mining states have built up a body of laws that suit the conditions of the prospective states but this has been denied Alaska. The present lack of railway communication is very bad while the provisions for schools away from incorporated towns is meagre and unsatisfactory as the people in many places have to educate their own children after paying their revenue to the government.
