

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

Nearly 9 years ago, the present owners of Hills Drug Store came to La Grande. Since then we have enlarged our store three different times to accommodate our increasing business, a business founded on the Rock of square dealing, good goods and reasonable prices.

It has always been the policy of this store to give its patrons the very best for their money; to have satisfied customers is our aim, and so well have we succeeded that we are known as the leading drug store of Union county. By hard work, push and energy we have given the people of Union county one of the most complete and up-to-date drug stocks in Eastern Oregon, and now at this time we have on display a

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DEFIES IMPEACHMENT

Washington, Dec 22—(Oregonian Special)—The administration is preparing to fight to the last ditch in maintenance of its position with respect to the discharge of a battalion of the Twenty-fifth (colored) Infantry against any action, no matter how extreme, that Congress by any possibility may take. President Roosevelt today sent Milton D. Purdy, assistant to the Attorney-General, to Brownsville, Texas, to obtain affidavits of citizens regarding the riot on the night of August 13 last, and these affidavits the President intends to have ready to meet the renewal of the attack against him by Senator Foraker when Congress reconvenes after the holidays.

Persons who called at the White House today declare that the President is aroused to his highest fighting pitch by the attempts being made to discredit his action upon the Brownsville affair and that he is more determined than ever not to take a single backward step nor make any move tending to the construction that he admits having misconceived either his powers in the premises or the testimony that guided him when he issued his order of wholesale discharge.

READY TO RISK IMPEACHMENT

If Congress passes a bill restoring the discharged soldiers to their former positions in the army, or removing the disability to re-enlist placed upon them, the President will veto it. If Congress passes a measure by a two-third vote over his veto, he will disregard its action, being willing to risk impeachment proceedings if his enemies want to carry the war that far—until the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the appointive power no longer rests with the Chief Executive of the Nation, but is vested in the legislative branch of the government.

These statements are strong. They are authentic, however, and those who are close enough to the President to understand his position thoroughly and have talked with him during the last 24 hours, entertain no doubt as to the lengths he will go to sustain his right as he sees it. Not a single soldier among those of the three companies discharged "without honor" will be reinstated in the army by the President of the United States unless he proves his innocence of the charges in gross made against the battalion to the satisfaction of the President. That is the ultimatum from the White House to its critics at the Capital.

POLITICAL GAME OF ENEMIES

That the most critical ordeal of the Roosevelt administration lies just beyond the merry holiday season seems probable at this writing. The Brownsville affair seems destined to overshadow all matters of legislative interest and make this contest between the President and his enemies—largely within his own party—stand out as the most prominent feature of the present session of Congress.

The deep political game that to some extent underlies the attack that has begun, which has received attention in administration as well as Senatorial circles, will be certain to add to the conflict. It is conceded now that Mr. Foraker will carry his point in demanding an investigation by a Senate committee of all facts connected with the discharge of the battalion and compelling the attendance of witnesses and the presentation of papers. The Foraker resolution, as it now stands, places the proposed investigation in the hands of the committee on military affairs. Senators of all factions have expressed a desire to hear both sides of the case.
